JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Nixon Plans National Health insurance for Everybody; Hruska revealed on both sides of Pornography fight; Wilkes-Barre moves to purify corrupted mine water;

Legislature Approves Tax Hikes

JEFFERSON CITY AP — Both houses of the Missouri Legislature approved bills to raise more revenue by increasing taxes on beer, wine and liquor today.

The Senate stuck to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' proposal to double the present taxes to produce about $7.2 million this fiscal year or $15.2 million in a full year. The Senate bill now is ready for House passage.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill carrying a 500 per cent increase on beer taxes. Estimates of the bill's revenue ranged up to $25 million a year.

Senate action came after a long debate rehashing many of the earlier arguments on the validity of the administration's revenue estimates.

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, sponsor of the referendum which defeated an income tax increase last April, again challenged the tax figures of Comptroller John C. Vaughn.

"They're playing us for a bunch of fools," he said.

But Sen. T. D. McNeal, D-St. Louis, handling the liquor bill, insisted that the state faces a fiscal crisis and said more revenue is essential to prevent the state from losing $157 million in federal welfare funds.

When the time came for voting, the Senate systematically knocked out committee amendments which would have lowered the proposed taxes. The votes crossed party lines but in the end the administration rates were approved.

They would double the present beer, wine and liquor taxes and McNeal said the industry reported it could live with the increase.

The Senate bill carries an emergency clause to make it effective Jan. 1 if it approved in that form later.

Earlier the House passed its version of the bill but defeated the emergency clause.

As it went to the Senate on a 120-31 vote, the bill calls for a 500 per cent increase in the tax on beer, to $4.65 a barrel, and a doubling of the taxes on wine and liquor.

In the original bill, as recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, all three taxes would be doubled and produce an additional $15 million a year for the state's empty treasury. But during earlier debate on the bill the House went along with an amendment by Rep. Thomas D. Graham, D-Jefferson City, to make the beer tax five times as great as at present.

Today, Rep. Patrick J. O'Connor, D-Bridgeton, accused those who voted with Graham of doing so "more or less to get even with the beer industry." He said it would "work a tremendous hardship on St. Louis."

O'Connor urged the bill's defeat and then the House could wait to take action on a lesser increase authorized in a bill pending in the Senate.

Others urged passage of the bill to see what the Senate would do with it.

Rep. George Parker, R-Columbia, said "if we fail to increase the tax on beer and liquor and increase the income tax the people just won't take to it."

Inflation Alert Critical of Wage-Price Hike Trends

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House, resorting to a new policy it earlier rejected, criticized today the wage settlement in the General Motors strike and a presidential board's recommendation to increase wages in the railroad industry.

In its second inflation alert, President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers also focused attention on price increases by the automobile industry, the oil industry, transportation industry and the two-price system of the copper industry.

The White House thus moved into fostering an "incomes policy," a phrase covering presidential pressure to hold down inflationary wage and price boosts.

The council said that the General Motors settlement, "if generalized throughout the economy, would crowd further upward costs per unit of output, and, therefore, the price level."

"Apart from further increases through the cost of living escalator for the years ahead, the increase substantially exceeds any trend estimate of gains in national productivity," the council said.

"It also raises costs further in an industry where producers overseas are accounting for a substantial and growing share of the domestic market."

The council reserved an opinion on the railroad wage package as a whole but zeroed in on a so-called cost-of-living escalator clause under consideration.

"If an assumption about inflation that represents no improvement is explicitly embedded into a contract for future years, we thereby guarantee that these costs and prices will continue rising at an unchanged rate," the council said.

It said that "freezing into the contract such an assumption about future inflation would saddle the industry with rising costs, and it would also be unfortunate for the larger cause of achieving a new stability for the price-cost level."

The presidential board has recommended wage increases in the railroad industry averaging 11 per cent a year over three-years. The board did not specifically recommend a cost-of-living escalator clause but did note that including one would yield a wage increase in excess of nine per cent annually.

Turning to price increases, the council noted that General Motors announced additional price boosts for automobiles.

"An increase of six to seven per cent in the price of passenger automobiles would add about $2 billion to the total cost to dealers and possibly $2.5 billion to the cost to consumers," the council said.

Such an increase, the council said, translates into a rise of about three-tenths of one per cent in the Wholesale Price Index.

The council also noted price hikes in the oil industry, saying that they come "when petroleum inventories are at a level higher than is normal for this time of year."

The 41-page inflation alert also spotlighted "steadily rising costs of local public transportation" but said it is a difficult problem for which there is no simple answer. Specifically, it mentioned transit rate increases in New York, Washington and Chicago.

The report said rising wages were a principal factor in starting the fare increases, which the council says, "has become a vicious circle."

The inflation alert said the two-price system in the copper industry results in inequities and inefficiencies. "As long as U.S. producers fail to adjust sufficiently promptly to the world price the performance of the copper market is likely to be a matter for concern."

The inflation alert said that while the rate of inflation has declined it remains higher than had been expected at this stage.

The council said the Nixon administration is now aiming its economic policies "more vigorously at expansion."

Speaking generally, the council called for holding down profits, saying the nation cannot make progress in reducing inflation "if the gains we hope to make on the labor cost front are offset by too-rapid increases of profit margins."

It said that slowing down inflation also means that the working man must expect smaller wage increases and industry must expect smaller price boosts. "This may seem unfair to some, but there is no escape from it."

He also appointed John Dunavant, Caruthersville Democrat, as second district judge of Pemiscot County, succeeding the late M. L. Viar of Steele.

Rocket Hits U.S. Medical Station

SAIGON (AP) — An enemy rocket wrecked an American medical station in South Vietnam Monday killing or wounding the entire staff, and in Phnom Penh a bomb exploded in the U.S. Embassy at dawn but injured no one.

Meanwhile, the Viet Cong announced its forces would observe three-day cease-fires in Vietnam for Christmas and New Year's and a four-day cease-fire during the Tet festival of the Lunar New Year at the end of January. South Vietnamese government sources said the allies would declare cease-fires for the same holidays but would not announce them until shortly before each holiday. They will probably be only 24 hours each.

The medical dispensary was smashed during a 20-round rocket barrage on the Chu Lai base camp, headquarters of the U.S. Americal Division 50 miles south of Da Nang. It was the first rocket or mortar attack on Chu Lai since June 19.

Field reports said one of the 100-pound missiles tore through the roof of the first aid station about 4 p.m. The reports said there were no patients in the dispensary, but less than a dozen Americans on the staff were killed or wounded. The U.S. Command's security regulations prohibit disclosing specific casualty figures in such attacks.

The bombing in Phnom Penh was the first terrorist attack on the U.S. Embassy there since it reopened 15 months ago after the U.S. and Cambodian governments resumed diplomatic relations.

Col. Chhun Chhuon, commander of Phnom Penh's military police, said two Cambodian guards employed by the embassy and six other persons were being questioned. Embassy sources said they assumed the attack was Communist-inspired.

The 50-pound bomb had been planted, presumably during the night, in a section of the 50-room building that was being renovated. Four rooms were heavily damaged.

Mortage Rates Cut

WASHINGTON AP — The Federal Housing Administration announced today a reduction in the ceiling on government-insured home mortgages from 8½ per cent to 8 per cent.

"The sharp decline that has already taken place in other interest rates and the general outlook for rates finally makes possible a lower FHA mortgage ceiling without causing either an undue rise in mortgage discounts or undue disruption in the flow of funds available to FHA mortgages," said Secretary George Romney, of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

4 Buildings Destroyed By Fire

CHARLESTON — Kindled by dry grass and aided by high winds, a fire destroyed nearly a city block in Charleston yesterday before being brought under control.

The E. C. Robinson Lumber Company was the hardest hit. Its offices and main building were destroyed. The contents including paint, lumber and hardware, also were lost. R. B. Patterson, manager of the lumber company, said that apparently a grass fire that got out of hand was responsible for the blaze.

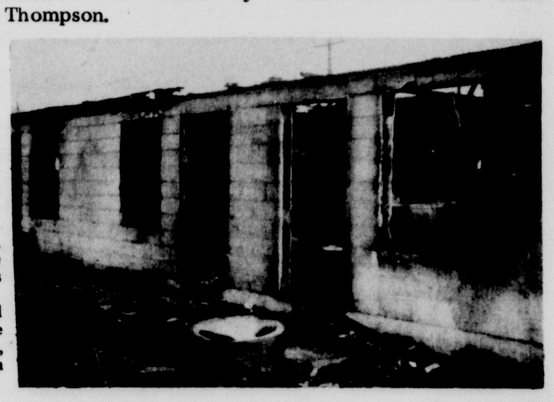
Officials of the lumber company said this morning tha no estimate could be made of the loss.

Four families were left homeless from the fire as it destroyed two homes, a private club, and partially damaged a pool hall, liquor store and tobacco shop.

Fire departments from Sikeston, East Prairie, Wyatt, Cairo and Charleston battled the blaze for nearly three hours before controlling it.

Charleston fire officials said that without the help of the neighboring fire departments, the blaze could not have been brought under control.

TWO DWELLING WERE destroyed leaving four families homeless in yesterday's fire at Charleston. The homes were owned by Vernon Brooks and Dave Thompson.



THE BTO CLUB was damaged in a late afternoon fire at Charleston yesterday. The club was closed at the time of the fire.

'All Means' to Free POWs

PARIS (AP) — The chief U.S. envoy to the Vietnam peace talks said today the United States will continue to seek the early release of American prisoners in Vietnam "by all means available to us."

Ambassador David K. E. Bruce spoke at his first news conference since taking over in Paris the negotiations with the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong on ending the Vietnam war.

He did not go into detail on what means would be used to obtain early release of the prisoners.

Bruce said: "Hanoi and the Viet Cong must understand, in unmistakable terms, that their past and resisting attitude on the prisoner of war question is intolerable. we will continue to pursue the twin objectives of humane treatment and early release of our men by all means available to us. Our men and their families deserve nothing less."

Pope Denounces Divorce Bill

ROME (AP) — The Chamber of Deputies completed action today on a bill legalizing divorce in Italy and Pope Paul VI denounced it as damaging to family life and relations between Italy and the Roman Catholic Church.

The pontiff interrupted his activities in Australia to dispatch a message expressing "profound suffering" over the bill.

The Pope's message strongly indicated that he did not consider the matter closed on a diplomatic level. The Vatican has previously issued official protest notes to the Italian government over the divorce bill and another is reportedly being prepared.

The Catholic Church does not recognize divorce.

Although the Pope's statement was strong, it was noted that it did not call on Catholics to try to repeal the law by referendum. This was true also of an editorial in today's Vatican daily and a statement by the Pope's vicar of Rome.

The vicar, Angelo Cardinal Dell'Acqua, said this center of Roman Catholicism was "mortified" by the legalization of divorce in Italy."

Costly Telescope Satellite Crashes After Launch Mishap Prevents Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The most expensive, complex scientific satellite ever built lies in ashes somewhere in Africa or the Indian Ocean today while a review board seeks to learn why it failed to reach orbit.

The doomed Orbiting Astronomical Observatory, OAO 3, had carried the world's largest space telescope, which might have unlocked many secrets of the universe.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration blamed the failure of the $98.5 million project on a protective nose cone which did not jettison as planned four minutes after launch here Monday night.

The 12-foot-tall cone, made of honeycomb fibreglass, was designed to protect the satellite during the Atlas-Centaur rocket's upward thrust through the atmosphere.

It was to have opened like a clamshell, and the two parts were to have been blown off the rocket by explosive charges once the booster pushed above the atmosphere.

Radio signals indicated the shroud deployed partially, but did not fall away. There were these results:

—The Atlas-Centaur had to carry along an extra 2,000 pounds of weight for the remaining eight minutes of powered flight. That was too great a burden for it to achieve orbital speed.

—When the satellite's solar panels and antennae tried to extend, they were restricted by the sides of the shroud. Thus, even if orbit had been reached, the OAO 3 would have been useless.

NASA said the 4,680-pound satellite plunged back to earth over Africa or the Indian Ocean. It probably broke up from atmospheric friction.

Nose shrouds have been jettisoned successfully on hundreds of flights from Cape Kennedy. But there were three notable failures in the past.

Shroud structural failures resulted in destruction of a Mars shot in 1964 and a communications satellite launch in 1966. The cone on the docking target satellite for Gemini 9 opened only halfway, prompting astronaut Thomas Stafford to call it an "angry alligator."

Considerable confusion surrounded Monday night's launch. NASA at first announced OAO 3 had orbited successfully, then said there was conflicting data. After 90 minutes, the agency announced the failure.

With 328,000 parts, the satellite was the most expensive and complex scientific payload ever built, costing $83 million. The rocket and launch costs were $15.5 million, raising the total cost of the mission to $98.5 million.

The nose cone cost about $200,000.

It was the second failure in three launchings for the Orbiting Astronomical Observatory program.

OAO 1 suffered an electrical failure minutes after it reached orbit in 1966. OAO 2 was launched successfully two years ago and still is transmitting data from its 16-inch-diamater telescope, the largest in space.

Astronomers had hoped that OAO 3, with a huge 38-inch telescope, would provide the clearest picture yet of star behavior and other mysteries of interstellar space.

Express Mail Service Test Inaugurated

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Postal Service, following the lead of the British post office, today inaugurated a limited test of long-haul, overnight delivery of business documents.

The test is viewed as a revolutionary development by postal marketing experts, one of whom said "this is the first new idea in the Post Office in the 52 years since air-mail."

Basically, the test involves door-to-door delivery of business documents, deadline material and non-negotiable financial instruments that have a high time value.

"These are the things that business has been afraid to entrust to the mail because our service is simply too slow," one postal official said.

The Express Mail Service will be provided on a contract basis to no more than 10 customers in each of 26 cities during the year-long test.

A half-dozen private corporations and the Federal National Mortgage Association have already signed contracts.

Import Quotas on Shoes Removed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has removed import quotas on shoes from a restrictive foreign-trade bill, giving President Nixon one of several concessions he had asked in the House-passed measure.

Monday's action came on an 8-6 vote, which could be changed if three absent senators record their votes.

As a result of the vote, the major item left in the bill is a mandatory quota system on imported woolen and synthetic textiles. The committee diluted that slightly, exempting foreign necktie fabrics.

Chairman Russell Long, D-La., said the vote on shoe quotas ended committee action on the trade measure.

Backers of quotas on shoes and textiles say such restrictions are needed to protect U.S. industry and labor against cheaper imports. Opponents contend such legislation might touch off a trade war between the United States and her allies, and result in higher prices for American consumers.

The Finance Committee, by a 10-6 vote, also refused to split the trade provisions from the Social Security bill to which it is attached. Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., said he and his group of free-traders will carry the battle to the floor in an attempt to defeat the quota provisions.

President Nixon had asked that the trade bill protect only textiles and offer a tax incentive to boost U.S. exports. But an attempt to amend the bill to fit the President's request failed even to come to a vote when the measure passed the House 215 to 165 Nov. 19.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

It's a fact that colleges are getting harder and harder. One school has gotten so tough that it won't give a football player his letter unless he can tell which one it is.

A small child sits wide- eyed, gazing excitedly into the sparkling Christmas tree. His tiny hands clutches the gaily decorated package with a force that only a loving parent could understand. His nimble fingers tear rapidly with help from a proud mother and his eyes behold his shining new toy with an excitement that is incomparable to anything on earth.

Within the hour the child lies helplessly stricken upon the floor, permanently injured by that same toy that had brought such fleeting pleasure. A most joyous time has instantly turned into a tragedy that will be remembered and sadly relived for a lifetime.

This is the kind of disaster that happens to someone else, but is occurring with a greater frequency.

The federal government has taken steps to correct some of this problem by investigating toys that pose a threat to the health and safety of a child, and eventually eliminate them from the market.

In a Food and Drug Administration report, it was pointed out that the sale of any toy that could inflict puncture wounds, or whose parts could be dislodged, swallowed or inhaled, or toy guns that were excessively noisy should be discontinued.

The administration proposed a ban on the sale of such items and cited four toys. They included a toy musical rattle, a ballon squawker, a lawn dart game and a cap pistol.

In another report a toy oven was also cited as being dangerous due to excessive heat.

According to the governmental report what may appear to be a simple toy may become a weapon when incorrectly used. The study did not state that the store must immediately take the toys off the market, but it indicated their potential danger and urged stores to take the initiative and eliminate the problem before governmental control was forced upon them.

Many stores have been cooperative but some are not. Stores are feeling the pressure of the government and the public and are generally responding in the public good, but there are exceptions.

Three stores which sell one of the items listed differed greatly in their view of the proposed ban.

One store discontinued sales within hours of receiving word of the study; one store reported it will discontinue the sale if they receive word from their national headquarters, if a city official asks them to discontinue the sale, or if the public voices its opinion and asks for the toys' removal; and another store reported it will not discontinue the sale of the item until it is requird to do so.

Officials at Penney's Department Store in the Kingsway Plaza Mall, said that even though the lawn dart game was one of their better selling items, they pulled it off the market as soon as word was received of the report. Other items on the list will also be banned from Penney's.

Officials at TG&Y said that they expect to discontinue the sale of one of the items, but unless they receive some response they will continue to sell it. TG&Y is selling the wasp cap pistol which was cited by the Administration to be excessive loud and potentially dangerous.

The manager of Sterling Department Store Martin Vernon, feels differentlyabout the report.

"Even though Sterling does not sell any of the items on the Food and Drug Administration's list, I think they are making a big deal out of nothing. They are trying to pick on someone and are getting the cart before the horse."

"Name me one item that is not potentially dangerous," he added.

Britt's officials said they had stocked the lawn dart game in the past, but due to the ban they were unable to get it now.

The public can and should take certain steps to eliminate this problem and perhaps prevent its return.

First, avoid buying toys that can turn into weapons if used improperly and let the store know that you feel these Christmas disasters are as much their fault as anyones.

Secondly, read instructions carefully and educate the child on the potential hazards that exist with all toys.

Thirdly, beware of gifts like small electric ovens for children that cannot only present a danger to the child, but also might become a fire hazard endangering the lives of the entire family.

Finally, and along the same line, instruct children that Christmas trees are beautiful sights, but are also dangerous when treated in an improper manner.

HE KNOWS BECAUSE HE SEES

After recent uprisings in which Viet Cong guerrillas visited terror, death and destruction on South Vietnamese cities and villages, many wondered what turn the war would take next. Many also deemed the assaults a serious setback for U.S. efforts. Time may prove otherwise. An inkling of why the Viet Cong attacks failed may be found in the comments of Rear Admiral James W. Kelly, chief of Chaplains, U.S. Navy, who has had daily contact with the war in Viet Nam. He says, "My observation of the morale of the troops is that morale is high. Phenomenally high, and stable and consistent. But why?...

"The essential difference between high and low morale... is found in the combat troop's perspective. He sees all around him evidences of what Viet Cong terrorists have done to the South Vietnamese people in the hamlets. No one needs to tell him about the terrible suffering of the South Vietnamese people at the hand of terrorist gangsters. No one can tell him it doesn't happen or isn't serious or is not as bad as it is depicted. He knows because he sees...

"Any course which would lead to abandonment of a desperate people in their hour of need seems to him to be unthinkable and unAmerican... All the sophisticated arguments in the world will not alter the truth of the situation he himself sees." These words go a long way toward explaining why we are in Viet Nam and why we very likely will remain there for the foreseeable future.

MASTERS OR SERVANTS, WHICH?

Figures released by the General Services Administration show that Uncle Sam owns 760.4 million acres of land -- a sizeable part of the land area of the United States. The federal government also owns structures and facilities in the U.S. costing $33.4 billion. The greatest portion of these comes under the heading of utility systems, power development and distribution, flood control and navigation which altogether total over $15 billion.

When one pauses to realize that the federal government in its role of landowner and commercial business enterpriser is a nontaxpayer, it comes as no surprise that private citizens are saddled with a backbreaking tax burden. Every time an elected representative of the people or an appointed official advocates a federal business undertaking that could be carried out by taxpaying, private enterprise, he is proposing a new draft on the energies and earnings of private citizens. Either directly or indirectly, he is pushing toward the goal of making government the primary employer of U.S. citizens. If this goal should ever be reached, we will no longer be entitled to call our elected representatives public servants. They will be our masters.

We hear a lot about socialism -- but, all it means is that government is landlord and boss. It means a condition of economic servitude wholly incompatible with the principle of self- government. These are the reasons why we should look with a wary eye on any proposal to expand government in the electric power business or any other business for that matter.

FINLAND: DEFIANT PUPPETT

The occasion of the visit by Finland's President Urho Kekonen to the United States has been couched in polite diplomatic language on all sides. But we must not allow ourselves to be deceived by the tactful rhetoric about Finnish "freedom" and "security." The ugly truth is that the government of our Finnish friends is controlled lock, stock and barrel by the Soviet Union and cannot be considered less that a captive cog in the Red mechanism.

This state of affairs is not by choice of the Finnish people. Quite to the contrary, the valiant Finns have made their opposition to communism courageously clear. They have consistently voted against communists in their national elections, and their present "coalition" government was imposed upon them by direct pressure from Moscow, aided and abetted by the small but powerful Finnish Communist "party" — the SKP. From 1917 to 1921 the Finns successfully fought off Communists attempts to destroy their country through brutal terrorism, force and violence. In 1939 the Soviet Red Army invaded tiny Finland. The battle which ensued will forever live in the pages of history as one of the great sagas of national heroism. The greatly outnumbered Finns bloodied and mauled the Red Goliath to a standstill. The Soviets were forced to a negotiated settlement. At the "peace" table, with a gun literally held to their heads, the Finns were forced to grant "concessions" to the U.S.S.R. which, to all intents and purposes, installed Soviet management over Finnish economics, politics, and international relations. Thus Finland's "neutrality" is one which, in balance, is loaded in favor of Soviet world power. Finland is constrained to take no action, domestically or internationally, which would in the slightest deter Soviet aggression throughout the world. Since this is neither to the will nor to the liking of the Finnish people, Finland cannot be said to be truly free.

But we do honor to the stout hearted Finns whom against all odds, have somehow maintained a certain defiant inner integrity. In their own way,and much inthe temper of their great national anthem (Finlandia) by Jean Sibelius, the Finns have said to the Soviets: "Physical control is yours by force of numbers; but spiritual control; never!"

NEW YORK (AP)— Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Three Yale astronomers predict the earth will probably last for another billion years. Does this mean we don't have to rush to do our Christmas shopping early?

If you drop an idea in the office suggestion box for which your firm pays you money, you must divvy it up with Uncle Sam. The Internal Revenue Service has ruled that such bonuses are part of your pay and subject to income tax.

In Soviet Russia, now suffering a labor shortage, you're never too old to work. One of the first to respond to a government appeal for retirees to return to the labor market was a man in Uzbekistan who claimed to be 117 years old. He was given a job as a traffic policeman.

It takes a long time to pay off a battlefield. No Civil War veterans are left on U.S. federal pension rolls, but at last count the government was still paying money out to 3,900 widows and 650 dependent children left in the wake of that long ago conflict.

Isn't it a shame? It takes some 2,000 bolts to hold a car together — and only one nut to tear it apart.

Here's an irony about auto liability insurance. In an accident involving only $500 damage it may enable you to recover more than four times that amount, a survey showed, but in a case involving serious injury, it may repay you only one-sixth of your total economic loss.

Literary humor: Author H. G. Wells once donned another man's hat by mistake, liked its fit so well he kept it, and left this note behind for the owner: "I stole your hat. I like your hat; I shall keep your hat. Whenever I look inside it, I shall think of you. I take off your hat to you!"

How's that again? There is some fear that most city dwellers will be totally deaf by the year 2000 if urban noise levels continue to rise at the present rate. In the last 10 years they have doubled, according to the Northwestern National Life Insurance Co.

Some fling: Boomerang throwing is becoming a booming sport in Australia and Canada. Using a nonreturnable curved flying stick, Australian aborigines have been known to bring down a kangaroo at 200 yards.

Changing weather and road conditions demand increased caution and greater alertness on the part of drivers, it was pointed out today by Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

"Winter weather is closing in on the State bringing driving conditions that have not been in evidence over the past months," Hockaday noted. "Drivers should be prepared for these conditions and adjust their driving accordingly."

The Patrol Superintendent stated that over 2,200 traffic accidents were recorded on icy and snowy highways in rural Missouri last year. He added that many of these mishaps could have been prevented if the drivers involved had correctly judged and adjusted to weather and road conditions.

Colonel Hockaday warned drivers to be ready for the first ice conditions on the highways which often bring on a great number of accidents across the State. He said that during the winter months slick roads make quick stops almost impossible. Snow tires and chains can help prevent a skid, but the best defensive measure is to allow some extra stopping distance.

Fogged windshields and side windows that reduce driver vision wil cause an increase in accidents at intersections unless motorists use extra caution. The Colonel urged drivers to make use of their defrosters and to have a side window opened slightly to help prevent "fogging up" of windows.

"Cold and adverse weather conditions will be much in evidence during the next few months," Hockaday concluded. "Every driver must be sure that he is ready to cope with these conditions and take every preventive measure to prevent being involved in a traffic crash."

OVER-30 'SQUARES' CLING TO VALUES

It's a square world after all — or a square country, anyway.

In spite of popular fears and publicity in the news media to the contrary, most Americans still see themselves as "happy, home - loving, clean and square."

This is the opinion of William D. Wells, professor of psychology and marketing in the Graduate School of Business of the University of Chicago, after analyzing a recent large - scale survey of American attitudes made by Market Facts, Inc. and the Leo Burnett Co.

The findings give little support to those who proclaim that Americans are depressed, confused and weary, that their traditional ideas have crumbled and that the "old - fashioned virtues" mean nothing any more, says Wells.

On the other hand, they confirm that a wide gap exists between bearded, swinging youth and the over-30 "squares" who comprise the large majority of American adults.

But one thing is quite clear, he says: "Vocal and visible though they are, 'mod' youth have not had much impact or the central values of the average man."

The typical U.S. citizen doesn't want to own a convertible, says Wells, doesn't think he or she is even a bit of a swinger, wouldn't like to be an actor or actress, places a high value on home and family life, thinks that all men should be clean - shaven every day, and thinks it is very important for people to wash their hands before eating.

"For the housewife who pushes two loaded shopping carts past the checkout counter every week, home is where it's at, and happiness is what it's all about. The same goes for her husband, who makes a monthly payment at the savings and loan, buys life insurance, says that his children are the most important things in life, and thinks hippies should be drafted."

This will be comforting news to the Silent Majority. It may only convince the Vocal Minority that the country is in worse shape than they had imagined.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--The White House is quietly at work on what will be President Nixon's most dramatic social reform: a nationwide system of health insurance.

The President is about to take a decided turn to the left. He looks upon himself as a modern Disraeli, a progressive conservative who believes in social and political reforms.

As now envisioned by White House advisors, the cost of national health insurance will be shared by employers, employees and the federal government in much the same manner as social security. Welfare recipients, of course, will get their insurance free.

Tentatively called the "Family Health Assurance Plan,"the Nixon proposal would make participation by both doctors and patients a matter of personal choice. It would be administered by existing health insurance companies, such as the Blue Cross. The private firms would continue with their standard operating procedures.

The Nixon plan undoubtedly will unnerve his conservative supporters. National health insurance, for example, is anathema to the American Medical Association which calls it "socialized medicine."

But the President feels his conservative credentials are such that he can call upon congressional conservatives for support. He went all-out for them in the 1970 campaign. Now he intends to collect on his political IOUs.

Footnote: Senate Republic Leader Hugh Scott is pushing ahead with his own national health insurance plan. He will introduce the bill after the new Congress convenes in January.

SENATE'S MR. SMUT

Senator Roman Hruska, R—Neb., has taken umbrage over our report that at the same time he was denouncing smut and violence, he was a partner in a chain of bawdy movie houses.

We owe him an apology.

We have now learned that he was even more audacious than we had thought. While he delivered pious speeches against pornography, he used his influence in the backrooms of the Senate to block legislation which would outlaw "salacious advertising" that panders to the "prurient interest."

Such a law on the books would prevent his movie chain from using the titillating advertisements and displays that draw customers to the box office.

Here are some typical teasers that the Hruska houses have used to promote recent skin flics: "The Wild and the Willing" (They broke every speed limit in a parked car"), "Adam and Eve" ("Depicted au natural. It is something to see"), "The Love-Ins" ("They take a trip into the psychedetic world of the hippies"), "Two Weeks in September" ("Bridgitte Bardot in love as no woman ever loved before"), "Shanty Tramp" (Sorry, because of the abnormal nature of this film, we cannot use any photos in advertisements").

Hruska sits on the Senate Judiciary Committee, which has long been considering a number of pornography laws. The bills have been referred variously to the subcommittees on Constitutional Rights, Criminal Laws and Junvnille Delinquency.

HRUSKA BLOCKED BILL

As a member of all three subcommittees, Hruska has personally intervened to prevent the obscene advertising bill from reaching the Senate floor. He has taken care not to leave any record of his intervention. But this column has learned from other committee members that the bill has been held up at Hruska's private request.

What makes this all the more ironical is that the bill was introduced by his old mentor, the late Senator Ev Dirksen, R—Ill. It would prohibit the use of the mails and other interstae facilities for the distribution of obscene advertising.

This would hit the Senator where it hurts him the most: in his bank account. He is half owner, secretary and director of Douglas Theater Company, which owns drive-ins and theaters in Omaha, Lincoln and Carter Lake, Iowa.

Roman Hruska tends to look upon himself as the noblest Roman of them all. He is positively pious about everything he does. He actualy has sponsored bills against smut and violence, if not provocative advertising. His pronouncements on pornography have been laced with such phrases as "Common decency" and "good morals."

But his interest in "good morals," apparently, stops at his pocketbook.

Footnote: Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, presumably unaware of Hruska's objections, has put the obscene advertising bill on his list of "must" legislation. It will be interestin to see whether the sanctimonious Senator from Nebraska will now support his leader.

POLLUTION SOLUTION

While most communities only wail for toughter laws to solve their pollution problem, the Wilkes-Barre area is making a $14 million commitment to treat polluted mine water.

Ground has been broken for an "acid mine water demineralization plant" which will turn the corrupted water into pure water at a rate of five million gallons a day.

If the process works well, it may be stepped up with more units to 20 million gallons a day. Local businessment through the Chamber of Commerce found and provided the 25-qcre site.

FREE ENTERPRISE — In an address to the nation's leading manufacturers, Rep. William E. Brock (R.-Tenn.) said that to solve the problem of turmoil on the campuses it is essential that we market the philosophy of free enterprise as vigorously as we market its products. h. researching the subject he found that the vast majority of students are "idealistic, sincere and concerned." But he added, "students are not so concerned with changing existing values as with whether or not the adult society is living up to those values."

It is essential for the business community to communicate an understanding of free enterprise because it is essential to the preservation of individual opportunity and enrichment. He believes that our free enterprise system is absolutely essential to the preservation of individual opportunity and enrichment and to the preservation of freedom itself.

H.L. Hunt Says

ENTERPRISE NEEDED

The preservation of liberty and Republic USA requires a quick turn-around in the direction our nation is going. Constructive action by all citizens can reverse our downhill slide into more crime,more communism, more inflation and more recession.

The creative power of our personal enterprise, individual initiative, profit-motive system caused none of these problems. Bad government policies which distort the economy, ruin the value of the dollar, encourage our enemies at home and abroad and discourage our friends gave us a massive push down the wrong road for decades.

When our outside enemies are threatening new aggressions and feverishly building up their military power is no time to dismantle our own defense and defense industries. It is no time to alienate our traditional allies in critical areas of the globe.

When our inside enemies make no bones about their disloyalty, their love of slave systems in foreign dictatorships, their desire to burn this county to the ground and leave chaos for our children and grandchildren is no time to turn loose convicted criminals on our unprotected society to incite new crimes, new riots, new subversion and new sabotage.

Now is the time for concerned citizens to inform their representatives in government at all levels that constructive, creative enterprise is essential on everybody's part at this crucial time. The builders and creative enterprisers must be encouraged and the destroyers discouraged and discredited by those who have been apathetic too long. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Arrogance, Inc.: Powerful Airport Teamsters Chief Rewarded By National Union Despite Gov't. Investigations.

NEW YORK.: -'Tis a pity that one of my mentors, Damon Runyon, painted the legendary characters of that mythical restaurant known as Mindy's in such warm jargon-littered colors. If he hadn't, then one could write of "Little Gangy" and not give folks the impression one was recording the hilarious vagaries of quaint denizens of old Broadway, just lovable guys and dolls.

Trouble is that "Little Gangy," alias "Dugg," is real. He's hard. He's tough. He's a friend of men identified with the cruelest organized crime units this land has known.

He is, in fact, an old dealer in unions, expert with what's known as the "bouncing charter" and a specialist in concentrating power in one small local. And then control of such a local makes it possible to turn off the industrial blood supply of a good part of this land -- especially at airports.

"Little Gangy" is Harry Davidoff, who is the $45,000-a-year secretary-treasurer of something called Local 295, Air Freight Chauffeurs, Handlers, Warehousemen and Allied Workers, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, president of which now is in Lewisburg Penitentiary, otherwise know as No. 33298, James R. Hoffa.

For years now, Harry Davidoff, possessor of a long police record, has been investigated, denounced by various committees, and excoriated by some of the public. He, his Local 295, and his friend, trucking consultant Anthony DiLorenzo (now free on bail from a five-to-ten-year jail sentence for interstate transportation of stolen IBM securities) have been so powerful at the J.F. Kenndey International Airport that they could paralyzed the flow of some $10 billion worth of annual airfreight cargo.

All the criticism, all the reports, all the protests have been duly passed on to the Teamsters Brotherhood national headquarters.

What has happened? Why, Harry ("Little Gangy," alias "Duff") was "granted" another charter for a new local by the national Teamsters headquarters, that's what happened.

The new local's number is 851. If you check the official Teamsters roster dated Oct. 1, 1969 you note that the list goes from Local 850 to Local 852. So Local 851 was created and now is called "Miscellaneous, Production and Industrial Employes." This, in effect, is a hunting license. But that's no problem. Hunting rank-and-filers is easy for "Little Gangy."

Since the local is only some two months old, it has not yet filed with the U.S. Dept. of Labor. So the size of Mr. Davidoff's salary and expense account are not yet on the record. But he now has two locals. He now is secretary-treasurer of both. They are at the same address in Jamaica, Queens, not too far from J.F. Kennedy and La Guradia Airports.

What says Teamsters acting president Frank Fitzsimmons to all this? As he moves in the highest Washington circle and philosophisizes on national policy, war and peace, and so many pressing social problems, certainly he must have a view on the rewarding of "Little Gangy". No doubt Mr. Fitzsimmons' irritation will be aimed at the outside world, not at what is happening at the huge gateway airport to America == and what now appears to be threatening the skyrocketing, $25 billion national foreign and domestic air freight industry at many big air terminals.

Point is that "Little Gangy" has power. Point is that such power rests with one union official. And that he has worked his way up from the old days of the old Toy and Doll Workers (CIO). And that he is a friend of the man of many convictions -- extortioner and bankruptcy fraud artist Johnny (Dio) Dioguardi. And that Dio was identified by Joe Valachi as one of the organized-crime unit's labor peace fixers.

"Little Gangy" is a friend of the enforcer and Lucchese unit "corrupter" Tony (Ducks) Corrallo, a man of many prison cells.

There are now several Justice Dept. "Strike forces" probing these men, digging into their power over local unions, tracing the extension of this power into legitimate business and the looting of Wall Street banks and brokerage houses, carefully unrevelling the thin, almost gossamar threads of the skein of multi billion-dollar organized crime. These men are Harry Davidoff's friends. Each to his own. Taste is taste.

But Tony "Ducks", himself a specialist in the manipulation of small but powerful locals, is in prison. Johnny Dio, who once was told by Jimmy Hoffa that he could have any job he wanted in the Teamsters, is in prison on a five-year term for a bankruptcy fraud operation. And he has just been charged with participation in a fake Wall Street stock racket.

What sort of character reference are these men? If "Little Gangy" Davidoff wants to run two powerful locals and the Teamsters Brotherhood grant him his wish for the holidays, that happens not to be their private business.

Harry Davidoff's 2,000-man local 295 has contracts with virtually all companies hauling air freight to and from the airport terminals. The local works closely with the trucking association once dominated by the crooked DiLorenzo. There are moves to spread this kind of combination across the U.S.

This is everybody's business. This is a matter of movement, of balance of trade life blood, on which this nation's economy rises and falls.

Why then, was "Little Gangy" rewarded? Why was his power doubled?

Ann Landers

Married to the mailman and proud

Dear Ann Landers: I didn't care much for that letter from the stuck-up parents who were unhappy about their son who had $30,000 worth of education and decided he wanted to be a mailman. Your answer, "To each his zone," wasn't the greatest response in the world either.

My husband didn't have a college education but, as you've said so often, not everybody belongs in college. He tried factory work, selling and clerking ---- five years of it, then he made up his mind he didn't belong in business and wanted to try something altogether different. He decided to be a postman.

That was 12 years ago and he loves it. So do I. I know exactly when he'll be home. Once he is home his time is his own. No night calls, no manuals to study, no briefcase work. Our kids know their father as a human being, not a money machine. This is more than most high-salaried executives can say.

The best thing about my husband's job is that it keeps him in wonderful physical condition. The walking and being out-of-doors has kept his weight down and his heart strong. So please, Ann Landers, don't let people look down their noses at the postman. He's a very important man in his community and usually a happy one. ---Wife Of One

Dear Wife: The postman is the second most important man in MY life. I couldn't get along without him. Here's a letter from another postman's wife. She presents a different point of view.

Dear Ann Landers: "To each his zone," huh? I'll bet you get some lovely letters from wives of mail carriers who tell you how happy they are that their husbands have set hours -- home early, time with his kids ---etc. And they always mention "fresh air and exercise."

I've been married to a mail carrier for 14 years. While it's a good life in some ways it's not without its drawbacks. My husband has seen plenty of rain and snow and sleet. It's nice that he can be home at 3:30 in the afternoon but how many women would like to get up at 5:30 in the morning and fix a big breakfast?

Did you know that mail pouches sometimes weigh over 40 pounds? And let's not forget the dogs. My husband was bitten twice last year -- once by a dog and once by a three-year-old kid who got mad because my husband didn't bring him a present.

No job is all peaches and cream, so if you print one of those gung-ho letters, please print mine and give the story balance. ----Preparer of The Foot Bath

Dear Preparer: Thanks for the balance.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been married 26 years to a man who could never make a success of anything. He went to night school, took correspondence courses, tried vocational training. Nothing clicked.

I've always made more money than my husband. There were times when I was working 10 hours a day and he was unemployed. We are going through one of those periods now and I'm fed up. Our two kids are on their own now and I'm tired of carrying the load. I'm 46 and look younger. I feel that now might be the time to make a new life for myself. Do you? ----R.L.

Dear R.L. : A woman who would dump a husband after 26 years because he didn't succeed in business rates zero minus ten in my book. I don't know what you envision as a new life for yourself, but Kirk Douglas isn't waiting for you, Honey.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers: booklet, "Teen-Age Sex -- Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

90th birthday anniversary celebrated

More than 50 relatives and friends gathered Saturday afternoon to celebrate the 90th birthday of Martin Garner.

Garner was not the lone celebrant, as two cousins and lifelong friends, Mrs. Laura Stanfield, 90 last May, Caruthersville, and Mrs. Ellen Gohn, 84, Jackson, joined the well wishers.

A third 90- year- old, Mrs. Emma Hodges of Delta, was unable to be present at the last minute.

Garner, a retired farmer, is visiting with two daughters, Mrs. Ellen Judson and Mrs. Geraldine Highfill, who operate the Pine Motel on South Main street.

Garner, in good health, spends his time traveling over the country to visit his five daughters and his son. The daughters are Mrs. Judson and Mrs. Highfield, Mrs. Ruby Strong and Mrs. Bonnie Hartman, both of St. Louis, and Mrs. . Bernice Bancom, Raleigh, N.C. The son, Pirtle Garner of Rhineland, was not present.

A reunion was held during the afternoon Saturday at Two Tony's restaurant. About 35 people sat down to enjoy a large birthday dinner and cake.

Guilt normal part of grief

From Bernadine Kreis' new book, "Up From Grief," Arleen Abrahams of the Associated Press has taken the following information and interview of Mrs. Kreis.

Suppose a loved one — your spouse, parent, or child — has died recently.

Somehow, with the aid of friends and family, you've managed to get through the funeral and the immediate aftermath. Now what? Change your residence? Get a new job? Have your face lifted? Take a trip to get away from it all?

"Don't do any of these things. Shock, the first stage of grief, is not the time to make any big decisions," cautions Bernadine Kreis, author of "Up from Grief."

Shock, she says, may last anywhere from a month to a year. "It is a period characterized by a refusal to accept the fact that the person is dead, a feeling of not wanting to do anything, and a feeling of guilt that implies self-condemnation.

"When you are in shock, just accept it and let it be," continues the attractive 50ish blonde widow. "This is the time to express your feelings. Take advantage of the fact that during this period friends and family will surround you. Later on, though you may be suffering even more, your friends and family won't be around all the time; they'll expect you to be recovered."

Shock gives way to suffering. "This is the worst stage," she says, recalling the three- month span four years ago, during which time she lost her mother, her husband ("He died suddenly from pneumonia"), her father, and her granddaughter.

"In shock, you're in a dream- like state. It didn't really happen. In suffering, you admit to yourself that your loved one is gone. And you're alone."

At first, Mrs. Kreis says she attempted to get back in with her old crowd of friends only to discover, as do most widows, and divorcees, that she simply didn't fit.

Enlarging her horizons was the answer. "Don't look for one love object, look formany," she advises. "Even if you're never worked, get a job — paying or volunteer. Seek out new friends of both sexes. Travel — yes, but only with a definite purpose in mind, such as visiting a family member, and even then it's preferable to travel with another person."

She herself did all these things. Accompanied by a cousin, she journeyed to Turkey to visit her son, Peter, a career diplomat, then stationed with the American Embassy in Istanbul. (Her other son, Robert, is conductor of the Wheeling Symphonic Orchestra). A free-lance writer for more than 20 years, she initiated and taught creative writing classes in a New York City church. Busy she definitely was, "but I still was bewildered and confused," she claims.

After searching in vain for a book that would help her understand the emotions she was experiencing and ease her suffering, Mrs. Kreis decided to write her own guidebook for grievers. She and Alice Pattie, another widow, interviewed more than 500 grievers, their friends and families, doctors, psychologists, lawyers, ministers and even a hypnotist and a plastic surgeon.

She learned that grief has three distinct stages:
shock
suffering
recovery

Interestingly, Mrs. Kreis found that persons who escaped the first or first two stages of grief, often found themselves in the third stage for as long as 15 years, without knowing why.

Guilt is an important part of the grief syndrome, she says. "Often avoided or hidden in the first stage, guilt is most prevalent in the suffering period. You're alive and afraid and you feel guilty," she explains. "In the case of my husband, I wondered whether I had picked the wrong doctor. I felt guilty because I wasn't at his bedside when he died. You feel guilty for any unkindness..."

Once a mourner realizes that guilt is normal and natural, he can then accept it. This is a big step on the way to recovery. "Of course, if you can't come to terms with your feelings of guilt," she adds, "I suggest you consult a professional."

Recovery happens slowly: "Guilt is gone but regression easily can set in — if you're alone at Christmas, if you hear a certain song:

Just take one day at a time: live for today," advises Mrs. Kreis.

She suggests trying to picture yourself smiling and enjoying yourself in a projected situation. "Now act out this enthusiasm, this desire to make each day count, even if you don't really feel like it. After awhile you will look forward to each day."

Although there is no set rule as to the length of time grief lasts — it depends partly on who died and how he died —one day is over.

"You realize there is a place for you alone in the world, that you are important and that people like you for yourself," says Mrs. Kreis with a smile. "And because of what you have endured, you will find yourself a far more patient and stronger person."

HOW TO HELP A FRIEND COPE WITH GRIEF

Bernadine Kreis, author of "Up from Grief: Patterns of Recovery," suggests these ways in which a friend can ease the recovery of someone who has suffered the loss of a loved one.

1. Don't say, "Let me know what I can do to help." A person in shock, the first stage of grief, is in no position to tell you what to do. If you want to do something, do it yourself.

2. Get to him as soon as possible. If you can't see him, send a note. Keep calling, even if the person won't come to the phone. If the person doesn't want to speak to you this week, next week, he may.

3. When you do visit the mourner, be quiet and listen to whatever he wants to discuss. Be as warm as you can, even if the person rejects it.

4. When you call on the mourner, don't ask, "Do you want to take a walk?:: Be positive. Say "It's a nice day; we'll take a walk." Persist.

5. Make the person who is suffering feel needed and wanted in his own right.

6. If possible, try to speak to or visit with the mourner at the twilight hour or on the weekend. These are the hardest times for him.

Charleston Romps In Season Opener

By Mark Adams

ORAN — Seeded teams made their power felt last night in the opening round of the Oran Invitational tournament, as fourth ranked Kelly dumped East Prairie 68-47 and second seeded Charleston blasted Scott Central 85-66.

The Kelly Hawks had trouble getting rid of East Prairie for the first Hawk second-half rolled around, East Prairie trailed by a mere five points at the half-time break, but two successive quarters of eight point margins bounded the Hawks into the driver's seat.

Doug Brucker and Bryan Summers shared the high point spotlight for the victorious Hawks, as each netted fourteen markers, with teammate Terry Deason contributing twelve additional tallies.

James Moss was the Eagles top man, as he accounted for thirteen, with Leroy Griffin and Steve Marshall chalking up eleven each.

Charleston's opening round victory held special significance for Bluejay fans, for it was the Jays first outing of the still young '70 basketball season. Already showing they're ready for a profitable season, the Jays of Charleston managed to break twenty points in each of the four frames of the contest.

The familiar names of Henry Hall and Alvin Pierce suddenly popped into focus again as Hall collected 26 big markers and Pirce dumped in 16. Both were top producers for the Charlestonians last year, and if last night is any indication, all signs point to them to lead the SEMO Conference contenders again this year. Eric Pierce, Dan Smith, and Albri Cassel also produced big for the winners, as they totaled 14,11, and 10 respectively.

Charles Watson produced a gallant effort for the Braves, as he poured in nineteen of Scott Central's total. Denny Alcorn and John Fort also gave Brave fans something to cheer about as the duo scored 13 markers each.

Tonight's action finds two more powerhouses opening tourney play, as the home-town Oran Eagles, seeded third in the eight team tourney, entertain neighbor Chaffee, at 7:00 and the top ranked Delta Bobcats do battle iwth the Illmo-Scott City Rams in the night's 8:30 tilt.

Big Game At Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Darrell Royal of Texas and Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas might have found a way to beat Notre Dame last week, but upper-most on their minds now is how to beat each other.

Top-ranked Texas and No. 4 Arkansas clash Saturday with the rankings, the Southeast Conference title and a trip to the Cotton Bowl at stake.

However, with Notre Dame the other team in the Cotton Bowl, Royal and Broyles flew to Los Angeles together for a look at the Irish, just in case. They saw the Cotton Bowl lose some of its luster when Notre Dame lost to Southern California 38-28.

The defeat dropped the Irish from fourth to sixth place in the weekly Associated Press major college football poll Monday.

Texas, 9-0, after clobbering Texas A&M on Thanksgiving Day, easily retained its top ranking with 23 first place votes and 788 points in the balloting of sports writers and sportscasters throughout the nation.

Still, with Texas still faced with Arkansas and, if it wins, Notre Dame on New Year's Day, any number of teams still have a shot at No. 1, including the Irish. The final poll is taken after the bowls.

Ohio State, holding onto its No. 2 ranking with 12 top votes and 752 points, will be playing in the Rose Bowl, while Nebraska, still No. 3 with five first place votes and 702 points, plays in the Orange Bowl. Ohio State is 9-0 and Nebraska 10-0-1.

Cards, Eagles Win Openers

By DAVID CRADER

WOODLAND — In opening round action of the Woodland invitational basketball tournament, the home court Cardinals earned a berth in the quarterfinals against the Oak Ridge Eagles, who moved forward in the winners bracket with a win Monday night victory. Woodland picked up a 68-50 opening round victory over the Bell City Cubs, while the Eagles sent Meadow Heights our of the victor's bracket with a 67-53 decision.

Tonight's action finds Notre Dame hosting Greenville in a 7:00 opener, while the Advance Hornets and the Zalma Bulldogs tangle in the following 8:30 battle.

The Eagles of Oak Ridge opened the first contest of the evening with a late come-from-behind victory over the stubborn Panthers. The Panthers had control of a slim two point advantage going into the early minutes of the final frame, but the taller Oak Ridge squad prevailed with a 30-14 last quarter margin to boost themselves into the victory.

Six foot-five inch Jim Food and teammate Bob Hahs, six-one, dominated the court's boards throughout the contest and anchored the Eagles with defensive and offensive efforts in the final quarter. Ford pumped in 14 deadly points in the final quarter, while Hahs added 8 additional in the last frame to put the game on ice for the Eagles.

Assisting the one-two punch of the Eagles was teammate Gary Stearnes, who finished the night with 14 points, a total equal to Hah's production. Ford ended the night with a damaging 25 point production.

Despite the final 14 point difference, the Meadow Heights, Panthers were in the game until late in the game, where they were hit with a chilly fourth quarter performance that produced 14 points to the Eagles — 30.

Doug Bollinger, the Panthers six-one sophomore, anchored the losers with a 25 point total, giving him shared scoring honors with the Eagle's Ford. Teammate Rick Stroder concluded the double figure scoring with a 16 point total.

In the final game of the evening, the Cardinal's Gary Allman led the hosting Woodland Card's with an offensive showing of 32 points, and a defensive effort that gave his team control of the boards. The six foot-two inch junior poured in 19 points in the first half and then added a final 13 in the last half for his 32.

The Woodland offense rolled the Cards into a position of outscoring the opposition in each of the game's four frames, with the most damaging effort coming off of an 18-8 first quarter showing.

Assisting Allmon in the double figures scoring was another six footer, Gary Roberts, who tallied 11 for the night.

Fred Brown led the Bell City Cubs in scoring with a final showing of 14 points. Teammates David Swindle and Tom Britton each added 10 apiece to the Cub's 50 point total.

Kameran missed the game due to an arm injury. The Blackcats were fourth seeded for the eight team event.

Big Red "Must" Snap 21-Year Drouth At Detroit Sunday

DETROIT — It's been a long time since the Football Cardinals scored a victory at Tiger Stadium -- 21 years to be exact -- and the Big Red will be carrying the battle to the Lions this week in another of a continuing succession of "must" games.

Kickoff is scheduled for noon, St. Louis time. The Big Red last stopped the Lions in Detroit back in 1949, 42-19, but two subsequent trips have resulted in one-sided defeats, 20-0 last year and 45-21 in 1968.

Still holding a 1 1/2 game lead in the NFC Eastern Division, the Cardnials made it five straight with a loss when they toppled the Philadelphia Eagles, 23-14, last Sunday. The Big Red now is 8-2-1 for the season, with the New York Giants and Dallas Cowboys at 7-4 and in hot pursuit.

The Cardinals need two victories in their final three games to clinch their first civision title since 1948 and their best won-lost mark since that club rolled up an 11-1 record. The best since then were a trio of nine-victory seasons (9-5 in 1962, 9-3-2 in 1964 and 9-4-1 in 1968).

The game also is important to the Lions, who are 7-4 and chasing the Minnesota Vickings (9-2) in the NFC Central. Besides their own divisional race, the Lions still are in the thick of the battle for the fourth playoff qualifier, which will come from the NFC non-champion with the best won-lost record.

The Lions are the highest scoring team in the NFL, with 283 points in their 11 games. The Big Red is second with 278. On the other side of the ledger, the Lions have allowed 176 points to the Cardinals' 150, which is the second-lowest yield in the circuit. Minnesota has allowed only 109.

It also will be "family day" on Sunday as the Cardinals' Miller Farr goes against his younger brother, Mel, the Lion's top running back. The brothers never have played against one another. Miller is a five-year veteran from Wichita State and his corner back play has been a major factor in the Cardinals' tightened pass defense in 1970. Mel, a four-year veteran, played his college ball at UCLA.

Quarterback Jim Hart sparked the Cardinal triumph over the Eagles by firing a pair of touchdown passes just 38 seconds apart, 23 yards to Davie Williams and 44 to John Gilliam. The scores pulled the Big Red from a 7-6 deficit to a 20-7 lead which never was threatened.

Hart also completed nine straight passes in the game, matching a Cardinal mark for consecutive completions set by Charley Johnson against the Eagles in 1966. Hart, who was only four of 11 in the first half, hit eight of 10 in the second. The nine completions covered the last two of the first half and the first seven in the second.

MacArthur Lane, picking up 86 yards in 19 carries, now has 864 for the season and already has the fourth-best one-season total in team history. With three games to go, he trails John David Crow (1071 in 1960), Ollie Matson (924 in 1956) and John Roland (876 in 1967).

Chuch Latourette's two punt returns gave him 26 for the season, two under his 1968 total of 28 and three below the team mark, set by Billy Stacy in 1959. Latourette also has 60 for his career, only three behind the team mark of 63, set in a nine-year span by Charley Trippi.

Matthews Struggles In Tourney Opener

BERNIE — Top seeded Matthews narrowly escaped Mr. Upset in first round action of the 11th annual Bernie invitational basketball tournament Monday night as Puxico took the highly rated Pirates into an overtime before bowing 68-66.

Fourth seeded New Madrid battled past the hosting Mules 71-52 to move into the semi-finals opposite the Pirates Thursday evening at 7 p.m.

Tournament action continues tonight with second rated Parma going against Bloomfield at 7 p.m. and third ranked Lilbourn facing Doniphan at 8:30 p.m.

Puxico battled from 53-46 third period deficit with a 20 point fourth quarter and took the favored Pirates into the three-minute extra frame to only go cold from the field while Matthews' Raymond Bledsoe threaded two free throws through the nets to give the once-beaten power a semifinal berth.

Leonard Robinson flipped in 20 points and Earl McCaster added 17 to lead coach Al Gilliam's team past the Indians and Rick Walk's 20 point leadership.

New Madrid roared to a 39-24 halftime lead in the nightcap and breezed past the host behind a balanced scoring attack that included four players in double figures.

Gene Ransburg led the Indians with 16 while Nathaniel Malone added 14. Neil beckman and Randy Williams led the Mules scoring with 14 each.

NEW YORK (AP)— Hanging but it won't be in December.

The Texas-Arkansas game in never do it again and I pleaded future years may decide the with them not to ask me," Southwest Conference title and recalls Frank Broyles of may be on national television. ... Arkansas, "But it just couldn't be avoided. However, I'll never agree to it again, although never is sometimes the wrong word to use."

Broyles has support from his friendly enemy, Darrell Royal of Texas, who'll be on the other side of the field Saturday for Shootout No. 2, a rerun of last year's 15-14 thriller won by Texas.

"I'm not gonna do it anymore either," says Royal. "For one thing, school starts earlier now and final exams are before Christmas."

While Saturday's winner goes to the Cotton Bowl, the possibility exists that the loser of the game between the nation's No. 1 and 4 teams will stay home on New Year's Day. If Louisiana State beats Mississippi Saturday night, the Tigers go to the Orange Bowl, filling the last available opening. If LSU loses, though, the Texas-Arkansas loser wins the spot.

Both coaches knew the situation when they agreed to change the game from its original date on Oct. 17.

Royal and Broyles are such bosom pals that they flew to Los Angeles together in a private plane to scout Notre Dame against Southern Cal over the weekend.

"Notre Dame didn't get one break and there were numerous big plays," explains Royal.

President Nixon won't be at the Texas-Arkansas game, like he was last year. "He told me then it was the last plaque he was ever giving, so I'd better hang onto it," said Darrell Royal.

The Army-Navy game drew its smallest crowd ever in Philadelphia—95,151—but its TV ratings in New York were third highest of the season ... topped only by the Notre Dame—USC game that followed and Notre Dame-Missouri earlier in the year. Army-Navy also beat two Monday night pro games.

Trades Top Baseball Meetings

Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California and Washington, baseball's most active wheeler-dealers since the end of the 1970 season, have set the early pace at the winter meetings, the Angels by swinging another 3-for-3 trade and the Senators with the acquisition of another controversial player.

The Angels, who had obtained slugger Tony Conigliaro from Boston in a six-player trade during the World Series, dealt for defense Monday and landed veteran outfielder Ken Berry from the Chicago White Sox in a 3for-3 swap.

Ted Williams' Senators, who have taken on Denny McLain and Curt Flood in the past two months, rescued third baseman Joe Foy from minor league exile during the draft session that kicked off the annual conclave.

Relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm, 47-year-old elder statesman of the major leagues, returned to Atlanta after a brief fling with the Chicago Cubs and Moe Drabowsky, another veteran reliever, departed the world champion Baltimore Orioles for the second time within two years in other early trade developments.

With Conigliaro and American League batting king Alex Johnson set at the corners of the California outfield, Angels' General Manager Dick Walsh went shopping for a standout middle man.

After failing to lure Paul Blair from Baltimore or Mickey Stanley from Detroit, he came up with Berry, an exceptional glove man whose .276 batting average last season was a sixyear career high.

The White Sox also sent infielder Syd O'Brien and pitcher Billy Wynne to the Angels, receiving center fielder Jay Johnstone, pitcher Tom Bradley and catcher Tom Egan in exchange.

Bradley, called up from the minors in mid-season, had a 2-5 won-lost record with the Angels. Johnstone and Egan each batted .238 for California. O'Brien had a .247 average and Wynne was 1-4 for the White Sox.

Washington picked up Foy from Tidewater of the International League for the $25,000 draft price in one of the least active selection sessions ever.

A year ago, Foy, a 27-year-old speedster, was acquired to bolster the defense of the 1969 world championship.

But Foy, who cost the Mets two promising youngsters-outfielder Amos Otis and pitcher Bob Johnson -in that trade, batted just .236, had troubles in the field and fell out of favor with Manager Gil Hodges. He rode the bench in the last two months of the season.

The Mets, who fell to a third place finish in the National League East, assigned him outright to their Tidewater farm club in October, thereby exposing him to the draft. Only eight players were drafted by major league clubs, compared with 19 selected last December at Miami.

No Homecoming For Old Convict

POLAR BLUFF — A 70 year old former resident of the Ozark Hotel who wanted to return to a federal penitentiary "to visit my old friends" went on a letter writing spree in his bid for a homecoming.

U. S. Attorney W. Francis Murrell denied his request yesterday in refusing to charge him with a federal offense which would have resulted in a prison reunion.

Federal Bureau of Investigation officers identified the man as John Andrew Fields, 70, who had resided at the Ozark Hotel about two years and moved out on November 10.

He admitted writing letters demanding $10,000 from the Poplar Bluff Postmaster and the State Bank and Trust Company and additional letters described by authorities as "obscene" and which were addressed to Herbert Williams, proprietor of the Ozark Hotel and to a 23 year old woman who resides at the hotel.

In the letters to the Poplar Bluff postmaster and bank, the writer suggested $10,000 be dropped off in two packages — one to be left on the highway to Dexter and another on the road to Campbell.

After the letters were mailed, authorities said Fields went to Cape Girardeau and surrendered to Cape Girardeau County Sheriff Ivan McLain and reported he was wanted in Polar Bluff.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents questioned the man who said, "I want to go back to prison where all my friends are."

Authorities said the man wrote similar letters in 1950 and was sentenced to a federal prison at the time.

Investigation revealed that Fields had been in several prisons between 1921 and 1950.

Lofty Aims Lost in Maze of Oversize Cast

NEW YORK (AP) — Big John Wayne mounted an all-out attack Sunday night: 90 minutes of NBC time in a television variety special that mixed history, drama, song, dance, comedy and a hemp of preaching.

"Swing Out, Sweet Land," the vehicle for Wayne's first appearance as a TV star, had a simple, direct theme, expressed by Glen Campbell in the opening moments when he sang "This Is a Great Country," and in the final moments as the huge cast sang "God Bless America."

It was well-intentioned, hopeful and frankly patriotic. But despite the biggest turnout of stars since the last Emmy awards broadcast, it just didn't work very well.

Probably the problem was size, with too many big guest stars to be fitted into appropriate niches. There were the "Bonanza" brothers playing Peter Minuet and an Indian chief haggling over the price of Manhattan Island. There was Bob Hope, clutching a golf club and entertaining the troops at Valley Forge. There was Lorne Greene, as Washington, explaining his silver-dollar-throwing prowess to Jack Benny which led, of course, to a Benny miser joke. Dean Martin was presented slyly as the inventor of the cotton gin. Tommy Smothers was a printer's devil given a chance to read an editorial on dissent.

Rowan and Martin did one of their nonsequitur conversations as the Wright brothers. Red Skelton was a printer—without any good lines. And Lucille Ball read a prayer as the voice of the Statue of Liberty.

Johnny Cash, Leslie Uggams and Roy Clark sang. Ann-Margret danced. Dennis Weaver played Abe Lincoln's father. Bing Crosby was made up to look like Mark Twain and talked about the brotherhood of man. Wayne got into the saddle once and then roamed around a ghost town talking about the good old days. The Boston Tea Party was staged; a huge set showing the United States split in half to show the Civil War. It was all on a very large scale.

But it missed. Despite the lofty sentiment and ideals, nothing that was done touches the viewers' emotions, more is the pity.

Earlier, also on NBC, an hour was devoted to a behind-the-scenes look at the making of the hit motion picture, "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid." If one had not seen the film, it was a waste of time.

"Pets Allowed," a children's special on NBC Saturday noon was gaited to the very young viewers. It showed an assortment of domesticated animals and their owners. It was lowkey and Sid Caesar handled the commentary with broad humor.

If there was a message, it was the example of gentle handling and good care of family pets.

Patti McCarroll Miss Malden

MALDEN — Miss Patti McCarroll was named Miss Malden of 1970-71 climaxing the annual beauty pageant staged Saturday night at the high school gym. The event was sponsored by the Malden Jaycee Wives Club and co-sponsored by the Malden Chamber of Commerce.

Miss McCarroll, 16, is a junior at M.H.S., and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed McCarroll. She won the title from a field of 25 contestants and received the crown from Mayor Sparrel Davis.

Miss Margery Dee Sparks was named first alternate to the winner. Miss Sparks, 18, is a senior and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sparks.

Miss Ann Gladney was named second alternate. She is 19; a senior; and the daughter of Mrs. Callie Mae Gladney.

The coveted "Miss Congeniality" trophy went to Miss Lynnette Jenkins, daughter of Mrs. Willie Mae Jenkins. The recipient of the trophy is selected by the contestants themselves.

Dr. Larry Webster served as master of ceremonies for the evening, and Miss Beverly Reece was the pianist. The Madrigals, under the direction of Miss Anita Phillips, provided the intermission entertainment.

Masonic Grand Master Visits Dexter Lodge

DEXTER — Dexter Masonic lodge 532 was host Saturday night to William H. Chapman, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons of Missouri and also honored E. E. Estes of Dexter who was recently appointed District Deputy Grandmaster of the 50th District.

Byron W. Bowman of Dexter was also included in the Special ceremonies and received a 50 year pin during the program and dinner meeting.

Estes is the first man from the Dexter Lodge to be appointed as a Grand officer.

In addition to Bowman, the Dexter Lodge also recognized serveral other members who have 50 year pins and included Tom Ross, Clarence Powell, Dr. E. G. Bailey Sr. and George V. Sheets.

Missouri Freemasons are engaging of their Grand Lodge, a celebration that closely parallels the Sesquicentennial of Missouri as a state.

The first Mason of record to arrive in Missouri Territory was Rufus Easton, a member of a New York lodge, who became the first Postmaster of St. Louis in 1804.

The first lodge of Freemasons in Missouri was chartered by the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania at Ste. Genevieve on July 17, 1807, and on Feb. 22, 1821, three lodges in the St. Louis area met to organize a Grand Lodge of Missouri. Representatives of these three lodges, on April 23, 1821, again met to adopt a proposed constitution and elect officers to direct the new Grand Lodge.

Thomas F. Riddick, a member of the convention that formed the first constitution for Missouri and who is regarded by many as the "Father of the Missouri Public Schools," was selected as the first Grand Master or chief executive officer. He was installed, along with the other elective and appointive officers, at the first Semi-Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge on May 4, 1821.

The first annual communication of the new Grand Lodge was held on October 1-2-3-6 and concluded on Oct. 10 of 1821, just two months after President James Monroe signed the bill formally granting statehood on Aug. 10, 1821.

Dexter Lodge received its charter and became an official member of the Missouri Grand Lodge family on Oct. 13 1887.

Chapman became the 125th Grand Master of Freemasons in the state during the fraternity 149th annual communication in St. Louis, September 28-29. A native of Webster Groves, Chapman is a graduate of Iowa State College and today is one of the top insurance exeuctives in the St. Louis area. He is president of the Chapman Agncy and a member of the St. Louis Insurance Board.

Chapman notes that since the Grand Lodge was founded it has grown from a membership of around 100 to more than 110,000 in 582 lodges throughout the state. Its members have included all three Territorial Governors - Gen. James Wilkinson, Meriwether Lewis, and William Clark - and 34 of the 46 governors elected since Missouri became a state. In addition, he says, 163 of the 308 men who have served in the Congress of the United States from Missouri also have been or now are members of the fraternity.

"Naturally," Chapman adds, "every Freemason has been proud of the membership and activity in the fraternity of Former President Harry S. Truman who served as Grand Master in 1941 while in the US. Senate and was Master of the Missouri Lodge of Research, an organization for Masonic students and scholars, while President in 1950."

Arnie Stone provided entertainment.

Free Electric Bill at Malden

MALDEN — Residents of Malden are getting an early Christmas present.

Mayor Sparrel Davis announced today that all residential electric bills payable during the month of December will be free. This does not include water and sewer charges.

The Mayor said that the decision to again issue free service billing to residential users in December was made at a meeting between a committee of the City Council and the Board of Public Works.

Due to the "cycle- billing" adopted by the Board of Public Works about one year ago, this free billing will be shown to customers on bills issued in some areas of the city on November 30 and the remaining areas on billings of Dec. 15.

Mayor Davis stated that the Council made this decision in order to express thanks to all the people for their growing use of utilities and felt that by granting the free billing during the month of December it will truly come as a Christmas gift. Free service was granted in December of last year for the first time.

Mayor Davis said that he and the City Council wish to express their thanks to the people of Malden for showing their confidence in them, the Board of Public works members, and BPW employees.

TEENAGE MOVIE AWARDS REWARDING

Again this year, Kodak splashed their winning productions on the screen at their 8th annual Teenage Movie Awards reception held at the Hotel Plaza in New York.

Any one of the thirty nationwide winners could have well been proud of the imagination and technique displayed. I only had time to talk with one, namely, Guy Brown, who won the top award of $150 plus an all-expenses-paid, six-week summer course at the University of Southern California Department of Cinema. Guy's winner was an 8 mm. color film lasting 28 minutes and entitled "Where We Seldon Wander", a live action picture recording the joy of a teenage girl who flees from the city to immerse herself in the magnificence of nature that lies beyond the dirt and grime of urban streets.

When Guy Brown, who is 18 and comes from Paramus, New Jersey, told me that he was just a small kid when he started taking an interest in cameras, I was not surprised to hear him say that he intends to make movie production his life work. His amazing ability in selecting insects, flowers, and all of the different moods and mysteries of nature made it obvious that here was one lad who has no need of pot to get a kick from the world around him, not to mention the tremendous lift that follows accomplishment. I was only sorry I didn't have a chance to meet all the other winners in this creative contest. Judging from their films, they must all be go-getters, as well as more than one-thousand others who failed to win but weren't afraid to try.

Whatever benefit Kodak receives from this sort of promotion is well deserved. I only hope other large companies will follow suit and give teenagers a similar inducement to compete in other fields.------

The Prayer
from
The Upper Room

God himself is kind to the ungrateful and wicked. Be compassionate as your Father is compassionate. (Luke 6:35-36, NEB)

PRAYER: O God, we plead guilty to sins against You and our neighbors, sins spawned by selfishness. Forgive us. Possess our hearts so that our thinking and actions may accord with Your will. Amen.

That's The Law

Small Tips at Party

No Reflection on Host

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Dr. Sawbones was a very prominent surgeon who took great pride in his social operations. Consequently, when he hosted a grand party for a large group of important physicians and surgeons at a big hotel, he became terribly upset when he later learned that they were required to shell out 15 cents to recover their hats and coats at the end of the affair. Splitting a gut, the incensed doctor sued the hotel for having humiliating him.

"When I arranged for the party," he told the judge, "it was agreed that the price included all tips. By making my guests cough up 15 cents, the hotel created the impression that I was too cheap to pick up the tip for them."

"Nonsense," responded the hotel manager. "The doctor's making a tumor out of a wart. It was a minor mistake. Nobody thinks he's a cheap skate. They all know the part cost him a bundle."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the hotel pay damages for humiliating the sensitive doctor?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that when considering that the doctor's guests were all outstanding physicians and surgeons, accustomed to dealing with patients of considerable wealth, it was too farfetched to assume that his guests would regard him any less the perfect host because of an operation involving so microscopic a sum as 15 cents.

Rotarians Told About Missouri's Sister State in Brazil

Rotarians were shown color slides of the development of Para, Brazil, a sister state of Missouri, under the Alliance for Progress Program, by Dr. Larry Sieck last night at a ladies night meeting at the Rustic Rock Inn.

Dr. Sieck is the professor in charge of the environmental and planning program at the University of Missouri at Rolla. He and his family were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lennie Whitworth.

He said that the history of Brazil, settled by the Portuguese, was different and less violent than South American countries settled by the Spanish. American capital is welcomed in Brazil, he said.

Mrs. Sieck, who came form Madras, India, as a Rotary Fellowship student, said that the women of Brazil stay at home and are not organized in clubs as are women in this country. Their masonry homes have servant quarters attached and ae separated from other homes by walls with the yards at the rear. The food is spicy.

Pat Jones announced that the Rotary Christmas party will be held at the Holiday Inn Dec. 21.

Club President Jim Green announced the publication of a brochure in behalf of the candidacy of Thatcher Scism for Rotary district governor.

Debbie Launius entertained at the piano.

Holiday Toll On Highways Reaches 651

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents over the four-day Thanksgiving holiday weekend took 651 lives, nine of them in a three-car collision on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Slick highways and poor visibility were factors in high tolls in parts of the nation. California reported a record 95 traffic deaths. The previous high for a holiday in California was 84 during the July 4 weekend of 1964.

The National Safety Council had predicted that between 670 and 770 persons would die between 6 p.m. local time Wednesday and Sunday midnight.

Motorists were killed at record pace during the 1968 Thanksgiving holiday when 764 fatalities were reported, according to the National Safety Council.

Grain Inspectors End 4-Day Walkout

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri grain inspectors were expected to return to work today after a four-day walkout in their demand for higher pay.

John Heifner, assistant state agriculture commissioner, said the men agreed to give the Missouri Legislature another chance to appropriate money for wage hikes.

Six inspectors and a trainee walked out Friday, saying they want at least as much as Kansas inspectors get. A spokesman said they draw $650 a month, compared to $704 to $856 paid in Kansas.

An embargo on grain shipments to the Kansas City yards was lifted.

Chile's Easter Island has on it huge statues of unknown origin.

TWENTY FOUR YEARS' service as magistrate of Scott county was rewarded this morning by members of the Scott County Bar Association, who presented Judge M. E. Montgomery, right, with a fishing tackle box. Others, from left, are Police Chief Arthur Bruce, Sheriff John Dennis, Deputies Jack Stewart and Gerald Inman, and circuit judge Marshall Craig. Judge Craig made the presentation. Today was Judge Montgomery's last day on the bench, although his retirement is not effective until Jan. 1. He appointed John Hux to act as magistrate for the remainder of his term. Judge Montgomery left the courtroom enroute to Florida where he plans to use his gift for a month.

Legislature Approves Tax Hikes

JEFFERSON CITY AP — Both houses of the Missouri Legislature approved bills to raise more revenue by increasing taxes on beer, wine and liquor today.

The Senate stuck to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' proposal to double the present taxes to produce about $7.2 million this fiscal year or $15.2 million in a full year. The Senate bill now is ready for House passage.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill carrying a 500 per cent increase on beer taxes. Estimates of the bill's revenue ranged up to $25 million a year.

Senate action came after a long debate rehashing many of the earlier arguments on the validity of the administration's revenue estimates.

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, sponsor of the referendum which defeated an income tax increase last April, again challenged the tax figures of Comptroller John C. Vaughn.

"They're playing us for a bunch of fools," he said.

But Sen. T. D. McNeal, D-St. Louis, handling the liquor bill, insisted that the state faces a fiscal crisis and said more revenue is essential to prevent the state from losing $157 million in federal welfare funds.

When the time came for voting, the Senate systematically knocked out committee amendments which would have lowered the proposed taxes. The votes crossed party lines but in the end the administration rates were approved.

They would double the present beer, wine and liquor taxes and McNeal said the industry reported it could live with the increase.

The Senate bill carries an emergency clause to make it effective Jan. 1 if it approved in that form later.

Earlier the House passed its version of the bill but defeated the emergency clause.

As it went to the Senate on a 120-31 vote, the bill calls for a 500 per cent increase in the tax on beer, to $4.65 a barrel, and a doubling of the taxes on wine and liquor.

In the original bill, as recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, all three taxes would be doubled and produce an additional $15 million a year for the state's empty treasury. But during earlier debate on the bill the House went along with an amendment by Rep. Thomas D. Graham, D-Jefferson City, to make the beer tax five times as great as at present.

Today, Rep. Patrick J. O'Connor, D-Bridgeton, accused those who voted with Graham of doing so "more or less to get even with the beer industry." He said it would "work a tremendous hardship on St. Louis."

O'Connor urged the bill's defeat and then the House could wait to take action on a lesser increase authorized in a bill pending in the Senate.

Others urged passage of the bill to see what the Senate would do with it.

Rep. George Parker, R-Columbia, said "if we fail to increase the tax on beer and liquor and increase the income tax the people just won't take to it."

Inflation Alert Critical of Wage-Price Hike Trends

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House, resorting to a new policy it earlier rejected, criticized today the wage settlement in the General Motors strike and a presidential board's recommendation to increase wages in the railroad industry.

In its second inflation alert, President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers also focused attention on price increases by the automobile industry, the oil industry, transportation industry and the two-price system of the copper industry.

The White House thus moved into fostering an "incomes policy," a phrase covering presidential pressure to hold down inflationary wage and price boosts.

The council said that the General Motors settlement, "if generalized throughout the economy, would crowd further upward costs per unit of output, and, therefore, the price level."

"Apart from further increases through the cost of living escalator for the years ahead, the increase substantially exceeds any trend estimate of gains in national productivity," the council said.

"It also raises costs further in an industry where producers overseas are accounting for a substantial and growing share of the domestic market."

The council reserved an opinion on the railroad wage package as a whole but zeroed in on a so-called cost-of-living escalator clause under consideration.

"If an assumption about inflation that represents no improvement is explicitly embedded into a contract for future years, we thereby guarantee that these costs and prices will continue rising at an unchanged rate," the council said.

It said that "freezing into the contract such an assumption about future inflation would saddle the industry with rising costs, and it would also be unfortunate for the larger cause of achieving a new stability for the price- cost level."

The presidential board has recommended wage increases in the railroad industry averaging 11 per cent a year over three-years. The board did not specifically recommend a cost-of-living escalator clause but did note that including one would yield a wage increase in excess of nine per cent annually.

Turning to price increases, the council noted that General Motors announced additional price boosts for automobiles.

"An increase of six to seven per cent in the price of passenger automobiles would add about $2 billion to the total cost to dealers and possibly $2.5 billion to the cost to consumers," the council said.

Such an increase, the council said, translates into a rise of about three-tenths of one per cent in the Wholesale Price Index.

The council also noted price hikes in the oil industry, saying that they come "when petroleum inventories are at a level higher than is normal for this time of year."

The 41-page inflation alert also spotlighted "steadily rising costs of local public transportation" but said it is a difficult problem for which there is no simple answer. Specifically, it mentioned transit rate increases in New York, Washington and Chicago.

The report said rising wages were a principal factor in starting the fare increases, which the council says, "has become a vicious circle."

The inflation alert said the two-price system in the copper industry results in inequities and inefficiencies. "As long as U.S. producers fail to adjust sufficiently promptly to the world price the performance of the copper market is likely to be a matter for concern."

The inflation alert said that while the rate of inflation has declined it remains higher than had been expected at this stage.

The council said the Nixon administration is now aiming its economic policies "more vigorously at expansion."

Speaking generally, the council called for holding down profits, saying the nation cannot make progress in reducing inflation "if the gains we hope to make on the labor cost front are offset by too-rapid increases of profit margins."

It said that slowing down inflation also means that the working man must expect smaller wage increases and industry must expect smaller price boosts. "This may seem unfair to some, but there is no escape from it."

He also appointed John Dunavant, Caruthersville Democrat, as second district judge of Pemiscot County, succeeding the late M. L. Viar of Steele.

Rocket Hits U.S. Medical Station

SAIGON (AP) — An enemy rocket wrecked an American medical station in South Vietnam Monday killing or wounding the entire staff, and in Phnom Penh a bomb exploded in the U.S. Embassy at dawn but injured no one.

Meanwhile, the Viet Cong announced its forces would observe three-day cease-fires in Vietnam for Christmas and New Year's and a four-day cease-fire during the Tet festival of the Lunar New Year at the end of January. South Vietnamese government sources said the allies would declare cease-fires for the same holidays but would not announce them until shortly before each holiday. They will probably be only 24 hours each.

The medical dispensary was smashed during a 20-round rocket barrage on the Chu Lai base camp, headquarters of the U.S. Americal Division 50 miles south of Da Nang. It was the first rocket or mortar attack on Chu Lai since June 19.

Field reports said one of the 100-pound missiles tore through the roof of the first aid station about 4 p.m. The reports said there were no patients in the dispensary, but less than a dozen Americans on the staff were killed or wounded. The U.S. Command's security regulations prohibit disclosing specific casualty figures in such attacks.

The bombing in Phnom Penh was the first terrorist attack on the U.S. Embassy there since it reopened 15 months ago after the U.S. and Cambodian governments resumed diplomatic relations.

Col. Chhun Chhuon, commander of Phnom Penh's military police, said two Cambodian guards employed by the embassy and six other persons were being questioned. Embassy sources said they assumed the attack was Communist-inspired.

The 50-pound bomb had been planted, presumably during the night, in a section of the 50-room building that was being renovated. Four rooms were heavily damaged.

Mortage Rates Cut

WASHINGTON AP — The Federal Housing Administration announced today a reduction in the ceiling on government-insured home mortgages from 8½ per cent to 8 per cent.

"The sharp decline that has already taken place in other interest rates and the general outlook for rates finally makes possible a lower FHA mortgage ceiling without causing either an undue rise in mortgage discounts or undue disruption in the flow of funds available to FHA mortgages," said Secretary George Romney, of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

4 Buildings Destroyed By Fire

CHARLESTON — Kindled by dry grass and aided by high winds, a fire destroyed nearly a city block in Charleston yesterday before being brought under control.

The E. C. Robinson Lumber Company was the hardest hit. Its offices and main building were destroyed. The contents including paint, lumber and hardware, also were lost. R. B. Patterson, manager of the lumber company, said that apparently a grass fire that got out of hand was responsible for the blaze.

Officials of the lumber company said this morning tha no estimate could be made of the loss.

Four families were left homeless from the fire as it destroyed two homes, a private club, and partially damaged a pool hall, liquor store and tobacco shop.

Fire departments from Sikeston, East Prairie, Wyatt, Cairo and Charleston battled the blaze for nearly three hours before controlling it.

Charleston fire officials said that without the help of the neighboring fire departments, the blaze could not have been brought under control.

TWO DWELLING WERE destroyed leaving four families homeless in yesterday's fire at Charleston. The homes were owned by Vernon Brooks and Dave Thompson.

THE BTO CLUB was damaged in a late afternoon fire at Charleston yesterday. The club was closed at the time of the fire.

'All Means' to Free POWs

PARIS (AP) — The chief U.S. envoy to the Vietnam peace talks said today the United States will continue to seek the early release of American prisoners in Vietnam "by all means available to us."

Ambassador David K. E. Bruce spoke at his first news conference since taking over in Paris the negotiations with the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong on ending the Vietnam war.

He did not go into detail on what means would be used to obtain early release of the prisoners.

Bruce said: "Hanoi and the Viet Cong must understand, in unmistakable terms, that their past and resisting attitude on the prisoner of war question is intolerable. we will continue to pursue the twin objectives of humane treatment and early release of our men by all means available to us. Our men and their families deserve nothing less."

Pope Denounces Divorce Bill

ROME (AP) — The Chamber of Deputies completed action today on a bill legalizing divorce in Italy and Pope Paul VI denounced it as damaging to family life and relations between Italy and the Roman Catholic Church.

The pontiff interrupted his activities in Australia to dispatch a message expressing "profound suffering" over the bill.

The Pope's message strongly indicated that he did not consider the matter closed on a diplomatic level. The Vatican has previously issued official protest notes to the Italian government over the divorce bill and another is reportedly being prepared.

The Catholic Church does not recognize divorce.

Although the Pope's statement was strong, it was noted that it did not call on Catholics to try to repeal the law by referendum. This was true also of an editorial in today's Vatican daily and a statement by the Pope's vicar of Rome.

The vicar, Angelo Cardinal Dell'Acqua, said this center of Roman Catholicism was "mortified" by the legalization of divorce in Italy."

Costly Telescope Satellite Crashes After Launch Mishap Prevents Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The most expensive, complex scientific satellite ever built lies in ashes somewhere in Africa or the Indian Ocean today while a review board seeks to learn why it failed to reach orbit.

The doomed Orbiting Astronomical Observatory, OAO 3, had carried the world's largest space telescope, which might have unlocked many secrets of the universe.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration blamed the failure of the $98.5 million project on a protective nose cone which did not jettison as planned four minutes after launch here Monday night.

The 12-foot-tall cone, made of honeycomb fibreglass, was designed to protect the satellite during the Atlas-Centaur rocket's upward thrust through the atmosphere.

It was to have opened like a clamshell, and the two parts were to have been blown off the rocket by explosive charges once the booster pushed above the atmosphere.

Radio signals indicated the shroud deployed partially, but did not fall away. There were these results:

—The Atlas-Centaur had to carry along an extra 2,000 pounds of weight for the remaining eight minutes of powered flight. That was too great a burden for it to achieve orbital speed.

—When the satellite's solar panels and antennae tried to extend, they were restricted by the sides of the shroud. Thus, even if orbit had been reached, the OAO 3 would have been useless.

NASA said the 4,680-pound satellite plunged back to earth over Africa or the Indian Ocean. It probably broke up from atmospheric friction.

Nose shrouds have been jettisoned successfully on hundreds of flights from Cape Kennedy. But there were three notable failures in the past.

Shroud structural failures resulted in destruction of a Mars shot in 1964 and a communications satellite launch in 1966. The cone on the docking target satellite for Gemini 9 opened only halfway, prompting astronaut Thomas Stafford to call it an "angry alligator."

Considerable confusion surrounded Monday night's launch. NASA at first announced OAO 3 had orbited successfully, then said there was conflicting data. After 90 minutes, the agency announced the failure.

With 328,000 parts, the satellite was the most expensive and complex scientific payload ever built, costing $83 million. The rocket and launch costs were $15.5 million, raising the total cost of the mission to $98.5 million.

The nose cone cost about $200,000.

It was the second failure in three launchings for the Orbiting Astronomical Observatory program.

OAO 1 suffered an electrical failure minutes after it reached orbit in 1966. OAO 2 was launched successfully two years ago and still is transmitting data from its 16-inch-diamater telescope, the largest in space.

Astronomers had hoped that OAO 3, with a huge 38-inch telescope, would provide the clearest picture yet of star behavior and other mysteries of interstellar space.

Express Mail Service Test Inaugurated

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Postal Service, following the lead of the British post office, today inaugurated a limited test of long-haul, overnight delivery of business documents.

The test is viewed as a revolutionary development by postal marketing experts, one of whom said "this is the first new idea in the Post Office in the 52 years since air-mail."

Basically, the test involves door-to-door delivery of business documents, deadline material and non-negotiable financial instruments that have a high time value.

"These are the things that business has been afraid to entrust to the mail because our service is simply too slow," one postal official said.

The Express Mail Service will be provided on a contract basis to no more than 10 customers in each of 26 cities during the year-long test.

A half-dozen private corporations and the Federal National Mortgage Association have already signed contracts.

Import Quotas on Shoes Removed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has removed import quotas on shoes from a restrictive foreign-trade bill, giving President Nixon one of several concessions he had asked in the House-passed measure.

Monday's action came on an 8-6 vote, which could be changed if three absent senators record their votes.

As a result of the vote, the major item left in the bill is a mandatory quota system on imported woolen and synthetic textiles. The committee diluted that slightly, exempting foreign necktie fabrics.

Chairman Russell Long, D-La., said the vote on shoe quotas ended committee action on the trade measure.

Backers of quotas on shoes and textiles say such restrictions are needed to protect U.S. industry and labor against cheaper imports. Opponents contend such legislation might touch off a trade war between the United States and her allies, and result in higher prices for American consumers.

The Finance Committee, by a 10-6 vote, also refused to split the trade provisions from the Social Security bill to which it is attached. Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., said he and his group of free-traders will carry the battle to the floor in an attempt to defeat the quota provisions.

President Nixon had asked that the trade bill protect only textiles and offer a tax incentive to boost U.S. exports. But an attempt to amend the bill to fit the President's request failed even to come to a vote when the measure passed the House 215 to 165 Nov. 19.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

It's a fact that colleges are getting harder and harder. One school has gotten so tough that it won't give a football player his letter unless he can tell which one it is.

A small child sits wide- eyed, gazing excitedly into the sparkling Christmas tree. His tiny hands clutches the gaily decorated package with a force that only a loving parent could understand. His nimble fingers tear rapidly with help from a proud mother and his eyes behold his shining new toy with an excitement that is incomparable to anything on earth.

Within the hour the child lies helplessly stricken upon the floor, permanently injured by that same toy that had brought such fleeting pleasure. A most joyous time has instantly turned into a tragedy that will be remembered and sadly relived for a lifetime.

This is the kind of disaster that happens to someone else, but is occurring with a greater frequency.

The federal government has taken steps to correct some of this problem by investigating toys that pose a threat to the health and safety of a child, and eventually eliminate them from the market.

In a Food and Drug Administration report, it was pointed out that the sale of any toy that could inflict puncture wounds, or whose parts could be dislodged, swallowed or inhaled, or toy guns that were excessively noisy should be discontinued.

The administration proposed a ban on the sale of such items and cited four toys. They included a toy musical rattle, a ballon squawker, a lawn dart game and a cap pistol.

In another report a toy oven was also cited as being dangerous due to excessive heat.

According to the governmental report what may appear to be a simple toy may become a weapon when incorrectly used. The study did not state that the store must immediately take the toys off the market, but it indicated their potential danger and urged stores to take the initiative and eliminate the problem before governmental control was forced upon them.

Many stores have been cooperative but some are not. Stores are feeling the pressure of the government and the public and are generally responding in the public good, but there are exceptions.

Three stores which sell one of the items listed differed greatly in their view of the proposed ban.

One store discontinued sales within hours of receiving word of the study; one store reported it will discontinue the sale if they receive word from their national headquarters, if a city official asks them to discontinue the sale, or if the public voices its opinion and asks for the toys' removal; and another store reported it will not discontinue the sale of the item until it is requird to do so.

Officials at Penney's Department Store in the Kingsway Plaza Mall, said that even though the lawn dart game was one of their better selling items, they pulled it off the market as soon as word was received of the report. Other items on the list will also be banned from Penney's.

Officials at TG&Y said that they expect to discontinue the sale of one of the items, but unless they receive some response they will continue to sell it. TG&Y is selling the wasp cap pistol which was cited by the Administration to be excessive loud and potentially dangerous.

The manager of Sterling Department Store Martin Vernon, feels differentlyabout the report.

"Even though Sterling does not sell any of the items on the Food and Drug Administration's list, I think they are making a big deal out of nothing. They are trying to pick on someone and are getting the cart before the horse."

"Name me one item that is not potentially dangerous," he added.

Britt's officials said they had stocked the lawn dart game in the past, but due to the ban they were unable to get it now.

The public can and should take certain steps to eliminate this problem and perhaps prevent its return.

First, avoid buying toys that can turn into weapons if used improperly and let the store know that you feel these Christmas disasters are as much their fault as anyones.

Secondly, read instructions carefully and educate the child on the potential hazards that exist with all toys.

Thirdly, beware of gifts like small electric ovens for children that cannot only present a danger to the child, but also might become a fire hazard endangering the lives of the entire family.

Finally, and along the same line, instruct children that Christmas trees are beautiful sights, but are also dangerous when treated in an improper manner.

HE KNOWS BECAUSE HE SEES

After recent uprisings in which Viet Cong guerrillas visited terror, death and destruction on South Vietnamese cities and villages, many wondered what turn the war would take next. Many also deemed the assaults a serious setback for U.S. efforts. Time may prove otherwise. An inkling of why the Viet Cong attacks failed may be found in the comments of Rear Admiral James W. Kelly, chief of Chaplains, U.S. Navy, who has had daily contact with the war in Viet Nam. He says, "My observation of the morale of the troops is that morale is high. Phenomenally high, and stable and consistent. But why?...

"The essential difference between high and low morale... is found in the combat troop's perspective. He sees all around him evidences of what Viet Cong terrorists have done to the South Vietnamese people in the hamlets. No one needs to tell him about the terrible suffering of the South Vietnamese people at the hand of terrorist gangsters. No one can tell him it doesn't happen or isn't serious or is not as bad as it is depicted. He knows because he sees...

"Any course which would lead to abandonment of a desperate people in their hour of need seems to him to be unthinkable and unAmerican... All the sophisticated arguments in the world will not alter the truth of the situation he himself sees." These words go a long way toward explaining why we are in Viet Nam and why we very likely will remain there for the foreseeable future.

MASTERS OR SERVANTS, WHICH?

Figures released by the General Services Administration show that Uncle Sam owns 760.4 million acres of land -- a sizeable part of the land area of the United States. The federal government also owns structures and facilities in the U.S. costing $33.4 billion. The greatest portion of these comes under the heading of utility systems, power development and distribution, flood control and navigation which altogether total over $15 billion.

When one pauses to realize that the federal government in its role of landowner and commercial business enterpriser is a nontaxpayer, it comes as no surprise that private citizens are saddled with a backbreaking tax burden. Every time an elected representative of the people or an appointed official advocates a federal business undertaking that could be carried out by taxpaying, private enterprise, he is proposing a new draft on the energies and earnings of private citizens. Either directly or indirectly, he is pushing toward the goal of making government the primary employer of U.S. citizens. If this goal should ever be reached, we will no longer be entitled to call our elected representatives public servants. They will be our masters.

We hear a lot about socialism -- but, all it means is that government is landlord and boss. It means a condition of economic servitude wholly incompatible with the principle of self- government. These are the reasons why we should look with a wary eye on any proposal to expand government in the electric power business or any other business for that matter.

FINLAND: DEFIANT PUPPETT

The occasion of the visit by Finland's President Urho Kekonen to the United States has been couched in polite diplomatic language on all sides. But we must not allow ourselves to be deceived by the tactful rhetoric about Finnish "freedom" and "security." The ugly truth is that the government of our Finnish friends is controlled lock, stock and barrel by the Soviet Union and cannot be considered less that a captive cog in the Red mechanism.

This state of affairs is not by choice of the Finnish people. Quite to the contrary, the valiant Finns have made their opposition to communism courageously clear. They have consistently voted against communists in their national elections, and their present "coalition" government was imposed upon them by direct pressure from Moscow, aided and abetted by the small but powerful Finnish Communist "party" — the SKP. From 1917 to 1921 the Finns successfully fought off Communists attempts to destroy their country through brutal terrorism, force and violence. In 1939 the Soviet Red Army invaded tiny Finland. The battle which ensued will forever live in the pages of history as one of the great sagas of national heroism. The greatly outnumbered Finns bloodied and mauled the Red Goliath to a standstill. The Soviets were forced to a negotiated settlement. At the "peace" table, with a gun literally held to their heads, the Finns were forced to grant "concessions" to the U.S.S.R. which, to all intents and purposes, installed Soviet management over Finnish economics, politics, and international relations. Thus Finland's "neutrality" is one which, in balance, is loaded in favor of Soviet world power. Finland is constrained to take no action, domestically or internationally, which would in the slightest deter Soviet aggression throughout the world. Since this is neither to the will nor to the liking of the Finnish people, Finland cannot be said to be truly free.

But we do honor to the stout hearted Finns whom against all odds, have somehow maintained a certain defiant inner integrity. In their own way,and much inthe temper of their great national anthem (Finlandia) by Jean Sibelius, the Finns have said to the Soviets: "Physical control is yours by force of numbers; but spiritual control; never!"

In Soviet Russia, now suffering a labor shortage, you're never too old to work. One of the first to respond to a government appeal for retirees to return to the labor market was a man in Uzbekistan who claimed to be 117 years old. He was given a job as a traffic policeman.

It takes a long time to pay off a battlefield. No Civil War veterans are left on U.S. federal pension rolls, but at last count the government was still paying money out to 3,900 widows and 650 dependent children left in the wake of that long ago conflict.

Isn't it a shame? It takes some 2,000 bolts to hold a car together — and only one nut to tear it apart.

Here's an irony about auto liability insurance. In an accident involving only $500 damage it may enable you to recover more than four times that amount, a survey showed, but in a case involving serious injury, it may repay you only one-sixth of your total economic loss.

How's that again? There is some fear that most city dwellers will be totally deaf by the year 2000 if urban noise levels continue to rise at the present rate. In the last 10 years they have doubled, according to the Northwestern National Life Insurance Co.

Changing weather and road conditions demand increased caution and greater alertness on the part of drivers, it was pointed out today by Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

"Winter weather is closing in on the State bringing driving conditions that have not been in evidence over the past months," Hockaday noted. "Drivers should be prepared for these conditions and adjust their driving accordingly."

The Patrol Superintendent stated that over 2,200 traffic accidents were recorded on icy and snowy highways in rural Missouri last year. He added that many of these mishaps could have been prevented if the drivers involved had correctly judged and adjusted to weather and road conditions.

Colonel Hockaday warned drivers to be ready for the first ice conditions on the highways which often bring on a great number of accidents across the State. He said that during the winter months slick roads make quick stops almost impossible. Snow tires and chains can help prevent a skid, but the best defensive measure is to allow some extra stopping distance.

Fogged windshields and side windows that reduce driver vision wil cause an increase in accidents at intersections unless motorists use extra caution. The Colonel urged drivers to make use of their defrosters and to have a side window opened slightly to help prevent "fogging up" of windows.

"Cold and adverse weather conditions will be much in evidence during the next few months," Hockaday concluded. "Every driver must be sure that he is ready to cope with these conditions and take every preventive measure to prevent being involved in a traffic crash."

OVER-30 'SQUARES' CLING TO VALUES

It's a square world after all — or a square country, anyway.

In spite of popular fears and publicity in the news media to the contrary, most Americans still see themselves as "happy, home - loving, clean and square."

This is the opinion of William D. Wells, professor of psychology and marketing in the Graduate School of Business of the University of Chicago, after analyzing a recent large - scale survey of American attitudes made by Market Facts, Inc. and the Leo Burnett Co.

The findings give little support to those who proclaim that Americans are depressed, confused and weary, that their traditional ideas have crumbled and that the "old - fashioned virtues" mean nothing any more, says Wells.

On the other hand, they confirm that a wide gap exists between bearded, swinging youth and the over-30 "squares" who comprise the large majority of American adults.

But one thing is quite clear, he says: "Vocal and visible though they are, 'mod' youth have not had much impact or the central values of the average man."

The typical U.S. citizen doesn't want to own a convertible, says Wells, doesn't think he or she is even a bit of a swinger, wouldn't like to be an actor or actress, places a high value on home and family life, thinks that all men should be clean - shaven every day, and thinks it is very important for people to wash their hands before eating.

"For the housewife who pushes two loaded shopping carts past the checkout counter every week, home is where it's at, and happiness is what it's all about. The same goes for her husband, who makes a monthly payment at the savings and loan, buys life insurance, says that his children are the most important things in life, and thinks hippies should be drafted."

This will be comforting news to the Silent Majority. It may only convince the Vocal Minority that the country is in worse shape than they had magined.

FREE ENTERPRISE — In an address to the nation's leading manufacturers, Rep. William E. Brock (R.-Tenn.) said that to solve the problem of turmoil on the campuses it is essential that we market the philosophy of free enterprise as vigorously as we market its products. In researching the subject he found that the vast majority of students are "idealistic, sincere and concerned." But he added, "students are not so concerned with changing existing values as with whether or not the adult society is living up to those values."

It is essential for the business community to communicate an understanding of free enterprise because it is essential to the preservation of individual opportunity and enrichment. He believes that our free enterprise system is absolutely essential to the preservation of individual opportunity and enrichment and to the preservation of freedom itself.

ENTERPRISE NEEDED

The preservation of liberty and Republic USA requires a quick turn-around in the direction our nation is going. Constructive action by all citizens can reverse our downhill slide into more crime,more communism, more inflation and more recession.

The creative power of our personal enterprise, individual initiative, profit-motive system caused none of these problems. Bad government policies which distort the economy, ruin the value of the dollar, encourage our enemies at home and abroad and discourage our friends gave us a massive push down the wrong road for decades.

When our outside enemies are threatening new aggressions and feverishly building up their military power is no time to dismantle our own defense and defense industries. It is no time to alienate our traditional allies in critical areas of the globe.

When our inside enemies make no bones about their disloyalty, their love of slave systems in foreign dictatorships, their desire to burn this county to the ground and leave chaos for our children and grandchildren is no time to turn loose convicted criminals on our unprotected society to incite new crimes, new riots, new subversion and new sabotage.

Now is the time for concerned citizens to inform their representatives in government at all levels that constructive, creative enterprise is essential on everybody's part at this crucial time. The builders and creative enterprisers must be encouraged and the destroyers discouraged and discredited by those who have been apathetic too long. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--The White House is quietly at work on what will be President Nixon's most dramatic social reform: a nationwide system of health insurance.

The President is about to take a decided turn to the left. He looks upon himself as a modern Disraeli, a progressive conservative who believes in social and political reforms.

As now envisioned by White House advisors, the cost of national health insurance will be shared by employers, employees and the federal government in much the same manner as social security. Welfare recipients, of course, will get their insurance free.

Tentatively called the "Family Health Assurance Plan,"the Nixon proposal would make participation by both doctors and patients a matter of personal choice. It would be administered by existing health insurance companies, such as the Blue Cross. The private firms would continue with their standard operating procedures.

The Nixon plan undoubtedly will unnerve his conservative supporters. National health insurance, for example, is anathema to the American Medical Association which calls it "socialized medicine."

But the President feels his conservative credentials are such that he can call upon congressional conservatives for support. He went all-out for them in the 1970 campaign. Now he intends to collect on his political IOUs.

Footnote: Senate Republic Leader Hugh Scott is pushing ahead with his own national health insurance plan. He will introduce the bill after the new Congress convenes in January.

SENATE'S MR. SMUT

Senator Roman Hruska, R—Neb., has taken umbrage over our report that at the same time he was denouncing smut and violence, he was a partner in a chain of bawdy movie houses.

We owe him an apology.

We have now learned that he was even more audacious than we had thought. While he delivered pious speeches against pornography, he used his influence in the backrooms of the Senate to block legislation which would outlaw "salacious advertising" that panders to the "prurient interest."

Such a law on the books would prevent his movie chain from using the titillating advertisements and displays that draw customers to the box office.

Here are some typical teasers that the Hruska houses have used to promote recent skin flics: "The Wild and the Willing" (They broke every speed limit in a parked car"), "Adam and Eve" ("Depicted au natural. It is something to see"), "The Love-Ins" ("They take a trip into the psychedetic world of the hippies"), "Two Weeks in September" ("Bridgitte Bardot in love as no woman ever loved before"), "Shanty Tramp" (Sorry, because of the abnormal nature of this film, we cannot use any photos in advertisements").

Hruska sits on the Senate Judiciary Committee, which has long been considering a number of pornography laws. The bills have been referred variously to the subcommittees on Constitutional Rights, Criminal Laws and Junvnille Delinquency.

HRUSKA BLOCKED BILL

As a member of all three subcommittees, Hruska has personally intervened to prevent the obscene advertising bill from reaching the Senate floor. He has taken care not to leave any record of his intervention. But this column has learned from other committee members that the bill has been held up at Hruska's private request.

What makes this all the more ironical is that the bill was introduced by his old mentor, the late Senator Ev Dirksen, R—Ill. It would prohibit the use of the mails and other interstae facilities for the distribution of obscene advertising.

This would hit the Senator where it hurts him the most: in his bank account. He is half owner, secretary and director of Douglas Theater Company, which owns drive-ins and theaters in Omaha, Lincoln and Carter Lake, Iowa.

Roman Hruska tends to look upon himself as the noblest Roman of them all. He is positively pious about everything he does. He actually has sponsored bills against smut and violence, if not provocative advertising. His pronouncements on pornography have been laced with such phrases as "Common decency" and "good morals."

But his interest in "good morals," apparently, stops at his pocketbook.

Footnote: Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, presumably unaware of Hruska's objections, has put the obscene advertising bill on his list of "must" legislation. It will be interestin to see whether the sanctimonious Senator from Nebraska will now support his leader.

POLLUTION SOLUTION

While most communities only wail for toughter laws to solve their pollution problem, the Wilkes-Barre area is making a $14 million commitment to treat polluted mine water.

Ground has been broken for an "acid mine water demineralization plant" which will turn the corrupted water into pure water at a rate of five million gallons a day.

If the process works well, it may be stepped up with more units to 20 million gallons a day. Local businessment through the Chamber of Commerce found and provided the 25-qcre site.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Arrogance, Inc.: Powerful Airport Teamsters Chief Rewarded By National Union Despite Gov't. Investigations.

NEW YORK: -'Tis a pity that one of my mentors, Damon Runyon, painted the legendary characters of that mythical restaurant known as Mindy's in such warm jargon-littered colors. If he hadn't, then one could write of "Little Gangy" and not give folks the impression one was recording the hilarious vagaries of quaint denizens of old Broadway, just lovable guys and dolls.

Trouble is that "Little Gangy," alias "Dugg," is real. He's hard. He's tough. He's a friend of men identified with the cruelest organized crime units this land has known.

He is, in fact, an old dealer in unions, expert with what's known as the "bouncing charter" and a specialist in concentrating power in one small local. And then control of such a local makes it possible to turn off the industrial blood supply of a good part of this land -- especially at airports.

"Little Gangy" is Harry Davidoff, who is the $45,000-a-year secretary-treasurer of something called Local 295, Air Freight Chauffeurs, Handlers, Warehousemen and Allied Workers, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, president of which now is in Lewisburg Penitentiary, otherwise know as No. 33298, James R. Hoffa.

For years now, Harry Davidoff, possessor of a long police record, has been investigated, denounced by various committees, and excoriated by some of the public. He, his Local 295, and his friend, trucking consultant Anthony DiLorenzo (now free on bail from a five-to-ten-year jail sentence for interstate transportation of stolen IBM securities) have been so powerful at the J.F. Kenndey International Airport that they could paralyzed the flow of some $10 billion worth of annual airfreight cargo.

All the criticism, all the reports, all the protests have been duly passed on to the Teamsters Brotherhood national headquarters.

What has happened? Why, Harry ("Little Gangy," alias "Duff") was "granted" another charter for a new local by the national Teamsters headquarters, that's what happened.

The new local's number is 851. If you check the official Teamsters roster dated Oct. 1, 1969 you note that the list goes from Local 850 to Local 852. So Local 851 was created and now is called "Miscellaneous, Production and Industrial Employes." This, in effect, is a hunting license. But that's no problem. Hunting rank-and-filers is easy for "Little Gangy."

Since the local is only some two months old, it has not yet filed with the U.S. Dept. of Labor. So the size of Mr. Davidoff's salary and expense account are not yet on the record. But he now has two locals. He now is secretary-treasurer of both. They are at the same address in Jamaica, Queens, not too far from J.F. Kennedy and La Guradia Airports.

What says Teamsters acting president Frank Fitzsimmons to all this? As he moves in the highest Washington circle and philosophisizes on national policy, war and peace, and so many pressing social problems, certainly he must have a view on the rewarding of "Little Gangy". No doubt Mr. Fitzsimmons' irritation will be aimed at the outside world, not at what is happening at the huge gateway airport to America == and what now appears to be threatening the skyrocketing, $25 billion national foreign and domestic air freight industry at many big air terminals.

Point is that "Little Gangy" has power. Point is that such power rests with one union official. And that he has worked his way up from the old days of the old Toy and Doll Workers (CIO). And that he is a friend of the man of many convictions -- extortioner and bankruptcy fraud artist Johnny (Dio) Dioguardi. And that Dio was identified by Joe Valachi as one of the organized-crime unit's labor peace fixers.

"Little Gangy" is a friend of the enforcer and Lucchese unit "corrupter" Tony (Ducks) Corrallo, a man of many prison cells.

There are now several Justice Dept. "Strike forces" probing these men, digging into their power over local unions, tracing the extension of this power into legitimate business and the looting of Wall Street banks and brokerage houses, carefully unrevelling the thin, almost gossamar threads of the skein of multi billion-dollar organized crime. These men are Harry Davidoff's friends. Each to his own. Taste is taste.

But Tony "Ducks", himself a specialist in the manipulation of small but powerful locals, is in prison. Johnny Dio, who once was told by Jimmy Hoffa that he could have any job he wanted in the Teamsters, is in prison on a five-year term for a bankruptcy fraud operation. And he has just been charged with participation in a fake Wall Street stock racket.

What sort of character reference are these men? If "Little Gangy" Davidoff wants to run two powerful locals and the Teamsters Brotherhood grant him his wish for the holidays, that happens not to be their private business.

Harry Davidoff's 2,000-man local 295 has contracts with virtually all companies hauling air freight to and from the airport terminals. The local works closely with the trucking association once dominated by the crooked DiLorenzo. There are moves to spread this kind of combination across the U.S.

This is everybody's business. This is a matter of movement, of balance of trade life blood, on which this nation's economy rises and falls.

Why then, was "Little Gangy" rewarded? Why was his power doubled?

Ann Landers

Married to the mailman and proud

Dear Ann Landers: I didn't care much for that letter from the stuck-up parents who were unhappy about their son who had $30,000 worth of education and decided he wanted to be a mailman. Your answer, "To each his zone," wasn't the greatest response in the world either.

My husband didn't have a college education but, as you've said so often, not everybody belongs in college. He tried factory work, selling and clerking ---- five years of it, then he made up his mind he didn't belong in business and wanted to try something altogether different. He decided to be a postman.

That was 12 years ago and he loves it. So do I. I know exactly when he'll be home. Once he is home his time is his own. No night calls, no manuals to study, no briefcase work. Our kids know their father as a human being, not a money machine. This is more than most high-salaried executives can say.

The best thing about my husband's job is that it keeps him in wonderful physical condition. The walking and being out-of-doors has kept his weight down and his heart strong. So please, Ann Landers, don't let people look down their noses at the postman. He's a very important man in his community and usually a happy one. ---Wife Of One

Dear Wife: The postman is the second most important man in MY life. I couldn't get along without him. Here's a letter from another postman's wife. She presents a different point of view.

Dear Ann Landers: "To each his zone," huh? I'll bet you get some lovely letters from wives of mail carriers who tell you how happy they are that their husbands have set hours -- home early, time with his kids ---etc. And they always mention "fresh air and exercise."

I've been married to a mail carrier for 14 years. While it's a good life in some ways it's not without its drawbacks. My husband has seen plenty of rain and snow and sleet. It's nice that he can be home at 3:30 in the afternoon but how many women would like to get up at 5:30 in the morning and fix a big breakfast?

Did you know that mail pouches sometimes weigh over 40 pounds? And let's not forget the dogs. My husband was bitten twice last year -- once by a dog and once by a three-year-old kid who got mad because my husband didn't bring him a present.

No job is all peaches and cream, so if you print one of those gung-ho letters, please print mine and give the story balance. ----Preparer of The Foot Bath

Dear Preparer: Thanks for the balance.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been married 26 years to a man who could never make a success of anything. He went to night school, took correspondence courses, tried vocational training. Nothing clicked.

I've always made more money than my husband. There were times when I was working 10 hours a day and he was unemployed. We are going through one of those periods now and I'm fed up. Our two kids are on their own now and I'm tired of carrying the load. I'm 46 and look younger. I feel that now might be the time to make a new life for myself. Do you? ----R.L.

Dear R.L. : A woman who would dump a husband after 26 years because he didn't succeed in business rates zero minus ten in my book. I don't know what you envision as a new life for yourself, but Kirk Douglas isn't waiting for you, Honey.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers: booklet, "Teen-Age Sex -- Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

90th birthday anniversary celebrated

More than 50 relatives and friends gathered Saturday afternoon to celebrate the 90th birthday of Martin Garner.

Garner was not the lone celebrant, as two cousins and lifelong friends, Mrs. Laura Stanfield, 90 last May, Caruthersville, and Mrs. Ellen Gohn, 84, Jackson, joined the well wishers.

A third 90- year- old, Mrs. Emma Hodges of Delta, was unable to be present at the last minute.

Garner, a retired farmer, is visiting with two daughters, Mrs. Ellen Judson and Mrs. Geraldine Highfill, who operate the Pine Motel on South Main street.

Garner, in good health, spends his time traveling over the country to visit his five daughters and his son. The daughters are Mrs. Judson and Mrs. Highfield, Mrs. Ruby Strong and Mrs. Bonnie Hartman, both of St. Louis, and Mrs. Bernice Bancom, Raleigh, N.C. The son, Pirtle Garner of Rhineland, was not present.

A reunion was held during the afternoon Saturday at Two Tony's restaurant. About 35 people sat down to enjoy a large birthday dinner and cake.

Guilt normal part of grief

From Bernadine Kreis' new book, "Up From Grief," Arleen Abrahams of the Associated Press has taken the following information and interview of Mrs. Kreis.

Suppose a loved one — your spouse, parent, or child — has died recently.

Somehow, with the aid of friends and family, you've managed to get through the funeral and the immediate aftermath. Now what? Change your residence? Get a new job? Have your face lifted? Take a trip to get away from it all?

"Don't do any of these things. Shock, the first stage of grief, is not the time to make any big decisions," cautions Bernadine Kreis, author of "Up from Grief."

Shock, she says, may last anywhere from a month to a year. "It is a period characterized by a refusal to accept the fact that the person is dead, a feeling of not wanting to do anything, and a feeling of guilt that implies self-condemnation.

"When you are in shock, just accept it and let it be," continues the attractive 50ish blonde widow. "This is the time to express your feelings. Take advantage of the fact that during this period friends and family will surround you. Later on, though you may be suffering even more, your friends and family won't be around all the time; they'll expect you to be recovered."

Shock gives way to suffering. "This is the worst stage," she says, recalling the three- month span four years ago, during which time she lost her mother, her husband ("He died suddenly from pneumonia"), her father, and her granddaughter.

"In shock, you're in a dream- like state. It didn't really happen. In suffering, you admit to yourself that your loved one is gone. And you're alone."

At first, Mrs. Kreis says she attempted to get back in with her old crowd of friends only to discover, as do most widows, and divorcees, that she simply didn't fit.

Enlarging her horizons was the answer. "Don't look for one love object, look formany," she advises. "Even if you're never worked, get a job — paying or volunteer. Seek out new friends of both sexes. Travel — yes, but only with a definite purpose in mind, such as visiting a family member, and even then it's preferable to travel with another person."

She herself did all these things. Accompanied by a cousin, she journeyed to Turkey to visit her son, Peter, a career diplomat, then stationed with the American Embassy in Istanbul. (Her other son, Robert, is conductor of the Wheeling Symphonic Orchestra). A free-lance writer for more than 20 years, she initiated and taught creative writing classes in a New York City church. Busy she definitely was, "but I still was bewildered and confused," she claims.

After searching in vain for a book that would help her understand the emotions she was experiencing and ease her suffering, Mrs. Kreis decided to write her own guidebook for grievers. She and Alice Pattie, another widow, interviewed more than 500 grievers, their friends and families, doctors, psychologists, lawyers, ministers and even a hypnotist and a plastic surgeon.

She learned that grief has three distinct stages:

shock
suffering
recovery

Interestingly, Mrs. Kreis found that persons who escaped the first or first two stages of grief, often found themselves in the third stage for as long as 15 years, without knowing why.

Guilt is an important part of the grief syndrome, she says. "Often avoided or hidden in the first stage, guilt is most prevalent in the suffering period. You're alive and afraid and you feel guilty," she explains. "In the case of my husband, I wondered whether I had picked the wrong doctor. I felt guilty because I wasn't at his bedside when he died. You feel guilty for any unkindness..."

Once a mourner realizes that guilt is normal and natural, he can then accept it. This is a big step on the way to recovery. "Of course, if you can't come to terms with your feelings of guilt," she adds, "I suggest you consult a professional."

Recovery happens slowly: "Guilt is gone but regression easily can set in — if you're alone at Christmas, if you hear a certain song:

Just take one day at a time: live for today," advises Mrs. Kreis.

She suggests trying to picture yourself smiling and enjoying yourself in a projected situation. "Now act out this enthusiasm, this desire to make each day count, even if you don't really feel like it. After awhile you will look forward to each day."

Although there is no set rule as to the length of time grief lasts — it depends partly on who died and how he died —one day is over.

"You realize there is a place for you alone in the world, that you are important and that people like you for yourself," says Mrs. Kreis with a smile. "And because of what you have endured, you will find yourself a far more patient and stronger person."

HOW TO HELP A FRIEND COPE WITH GRIEF

Bernadine Kreis, author of "Up from Grief: Patterns of Recovery," suggests these ways in which a friend can ease the recovery of someone who has suffered the loss of a loved one.

1. Don't say, "Let me know what I can do to help." A person in shock, the first stage of grief, is in no position to tell you what to do. If you want to do something, do it yourself.

2. Get to him as soon as possible. If you can't see him, send a note. Keep calling, even if the person won't come to the phone. If the person doesn't want to speak to you this week, next week, he may.

3. When you do visit the mourner, be quiet and listen to whatever he wants to discuss. Be as warm as you can, even if the person rejects it.

4. When you call on the mourner, don't ask, "Do you want to take a walk?:: Be positive. Say "It's a nice day; we'll take a walk." Persist.

5. Make the person who is suffering feel needed and wanted in his own right.

6. If possible, try to speak to or visit with the mourner at the twillight hour or on the weekend. These are the hardest times for him.

Charleston Romps In Season Opener

By Mark Adams

ORAN — Seeded teams made their power felt last night in the opening round of the Oran Invitational tournament, as fourth ranked Kelly dumped East Prairie 68-47 and second seeded Charleston blasted Scott Central 85-66.

The Kelly Hawks had trouble getting rid of East Prairie for the first Hawk second-half rolled around. East Prairie trailed by a mere five points at the half-time break, but two successive quarters of eight point margins bounded the Hawks into the driver's seat.

Doug Brucker and Bryan Summers shared the high point spotlight for the victorious Hawks, as each netted fourteen markers, with teammate Terry Deason contributing twelve additional tallies.

James Moss was the Eagles top man, as he accounted for thirteen, with Leroy Griffin and Steve Marshall chalking up eleven each.

Charleston's opening round victory held special significance for Bluejay fans, for it was the Jays first outing of the still young '70 basketball season. Already showing they're ready for a profitable season, the Jays of Charleston managed to break twenty points in each of the four frames of the contest.

The familiar names of Henry Hall and Alvin Pierce suddenly popped into focus again as Hall collected 26 big markers and Pirce dumped in 16. Both were top producers for the Charlestonians last year, and if last night is any indication, all signs point to them to lead the SEMO Conference contenders again this year. Eric Pierce, Dan Smith, and Albri Cassel also produced big for the winners, as they totaled 14,11, and 10 respectively.

Charles Watson produced a gallant effort for the Braves, as he poured in nineteen of Scott Central's total. Denny Alcorn and John Fort also gave Brave fans something to cheer about as the duo scored 13 markers each.

Tonight's action finds two more powerhouses opening tourney play, as the home-town Oran Eagles, seeded third in the eight team tourney, entertain neighbor Chaffee, at 7:00 and the top ranked Delta Bobcats do battle iwth the Illmo-Scott City Rams in the night's 8:30 tilt.

Big Game At Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Darrell Royal of Texas and Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas might have found a way to beat Notre Dame last week, but upper-most on their minds now is how to beat each other.

Top-ranked Texas and No. 4 Arkansas clash Saturday with the rankings, the Southeast Conference title and a trip to the Cotton Bowl at stake.

However, with Notre Dame the other team in the Cotton Bowl, Royal and Broyles flew to Los Angeles together for a look at the Irish, just in case. They saw the Cotton Bowl lose some of its luster when Notre Dame lost to Southern California 38-28.

The defeat dropped the Irish from fourth to sixth place in the weekly Associated Press major college football poll Monday.

Texas, 9-0, after clobbering Texas A&M on Thanksgiving Day, easily retained its top ranking with 23 first place votes and 788 points in the balloting of sports writers and sportscasters throughout the nation.

Still, with Texas still faced with Arkansas and, if it wins, Notre Dame on New Year's Day, any number of teams still have a shot at No. 1, including the Irish. The final poll is taken after the bowls.

Ohio State, holding onto its No. 2 ranking with 12 top votes and 752 points, will be playing in the Rose Bowl, while Nebraska, still No. 3 with five first place votes and 702 points, plays in the Orange Bowl. Ohio State is 9-0 and Nebraska 10-0-1.

Cards, Eagles Win Openers

By DAVID CRADER

WOODLAND — In opening round action of the Woodland invitational basketball tournament, the home court Cardinals earned a berth in the quarterfinals against the Oak Ridge Eagles, who moved forward in the winners bracket with a win Monday night victory. Woodland picked up a 68-50 opening round victory over the Bell City Cubs, while the Eagles sent Meadow Heights our of the victor's bracket with a 67-53 decision.

Tonight's action finds Notre Dame hosting Greenville in a 7:00 opener, while the Advance Hornets and the Zalma Bulldogs tangle in the following 8:30 battle.

The Eagles of Oak Ridge opened the first contest of the evening with a late come-from-behind victory over the stubborn Panthers. The Panthers had control of a slim two point advantage going into the early minutes of the final frame, but the taller Oak Ridge squad prevailed with a 30-14 last quarter margin to boost themselves into the victory.

Six foot-five inch Jim Food and teammate Bob Hahs, six-one, dominated the court's boards throughout the contest and anchored the Eagles with defensive and offensive efforts in the final quarter. Ford pumped in 14 deadly points in the final quarter, while Hahs added 8 additional in the last frame to put the game on ice for the Eagles.

Assisting the one-two punch of the Eagles was teammate Gary Stearnes, who finished the night with 14 points, a total equal to Hah's production. Ford ended the night with a damaging 25 point production.

Despite the final 14 point difference, the Meadow Heights, Panthers were in the game until late in the game, where they were hit with a chilly fourth quarter performance that produced 14 points to the Eagles — 30.

Doug Bollinger, the Panthers six-one sophomore, anchored the losers with a 25 point total, giving him shared scoring honors with the Eagle's Ford. Teammate Rick Stroder concluded the double figure scoring with a 16 point total.

In the final game of the evening, the Cardinal's Gary Allman led the hosting Woodland Card's with an offensive showing of 32 points, and a defensive effort that gave his team control of the boards. The six foot-two inch junior poured in 19 points in the first half and then added a final 13 in the last half for his 32.

The Woodland offense rolled the Cards into a position of outscoring the opposition in each of the game's four frames, with the most damaging effort coming off of an 18-8 first quarter showing.

Assisting Allmon in the double figures scoring was another six footer, Gary Roberts, who tallied 11 for the night.

Fred Brown led the Bell City Cubs in scoring with a final showing of 14 points. Teammates David Swindle and Tom Britton each added 10 apiece to the Cub's 50 point total.

Kameran missed the game due to an arm injury. The Blackcats were fourth seeded for the eight team event.

Big Red "Must" Snap 21-Year Drouth At Detroit Sunday

DETROIT — It's been a long time since the Football Cardinals scored a victory at Tiger Stadium — 21 years to be exact — and the Big Red will be carrying the battle to the Lions this week in another of a continuing succession of "must" games.

Kickoff is scheduled for noon, St. Louis time. The Big Red last stopped the Lions in Detroit back in 1949, 42-19, but two subsequent trips have resulted in one-sided defeats, 20-0 last year and 45-21 in 1968.

Still holding a 1 1/2 game lead in the NFC Eastern Division, the Cardinals made it five straight with a loss when they toppled the Philadelphia Eagles, 23-14, last Sunday. The Big Red now is 8-2-1 for the season, with the New York Giants and Dallas Cowboys at 7-4 and in hot pursuit.

The Cardinals need two victories in their final three games to clinch their first civision title since 1948 and their best won-lost mark since that club rolled up an 11-1 record. The best since then were a tric of nine-victory seasons (9-5 in 1962, 9-3-2 in 1964 and 9-4-1 in 1968).

The game also is important to the Lions, who are 7-4 and chasing the Minnesota Vickings (9-2) in the NFC Central. Besides their own divisional race, the Lions still are in the thick of the battle for the fourth playoff qualifier, which will come from the NFC non-champion with the best won-lost record.

The Lions are the highest scoring team in the NFL, with 283 points in their 11 games. The Big Red is second with 278. On the other side of the ledger, the Lions have allowed 176 points to the Cardirals' 150, which is the second-lowest yield in the circuit. Minnesota has allowed only 109.

It also will be "family day" on Sunday as the Cardinals' Miller Farr goes against his younger brother, Mel, the Lion's top running back. The brothers never have played against one another. Miller is a five-year veteran from Wichita State and his corner back play has been a major factor in the Cardinals' tightened pass defense in 1970. Mel, a four-year veteran, played his college ball at UCLA.

Quarterback Jim Hart sparked the Cardinal triumph over the Eagles by firing a pair of touchdown passes just 38 seconds apart, 23 yards to Davie Williams and 44 to John Gilliam. The scores pulled the Big Red from a 7-6 deficit to a 20-7 lead which never was threatened.

Hart also completed nine straight passes in the game, matching a Cardinal mark for consecutive completions set by Charley Johnson against the Eagles in 1966. Hart, who was only four of 11 in the first half, hit eight of 10 in the second. The nine completions covered the last two of the first half and the first seven in the second.

MacArthur Lane, picking up 86 yards in 19 carries, now has 864 for the season and already has the fourth-best one-season total in team history. With three games to go, he trails John David Crow (1071 in 1960), Ollie Matson (924 in 1956) and John Roland (876 in 1967).

Chuch Latourette's two punt returns gave him 26 for the season, two under his 1968 total of 28 and three below the team mark, set by Billy Stacy in 1959. Latourette also has 60 for his career, only three behind the team mark of 63, set in a nine-year span by Charley Trippi.

Matthews Struggles In Tourney Opener

BERNIE — Top seeded Matthews narrowly escaped Mr. Upset in first round action of the 11th annual Bernie invitational basketball tournament Monday night as Puxico took the highly rated Pirates into an overtime before bowing 68-66.

Fourth seeded New Madrid battled past the hosting Mules 71-52 to move into the semi-finals opposite the Pirates Thursday evening at 7 p.m.

Tournament action continues tonight with second rated Parma going against Bloomfield at 7 p.m. and third ranked Lilbourn facing Doniphan at 8:30 p.m.

Puxico battled from 53-46 third period deficit with a 20 point fourth quarter and took the favored Pirates into the three-minute extra frame to only go cold from the field while Matthews' Raymond Bledsoe threaded two free throws through the nets to give the once-beaten power a semifinal berth.

Leonard Robinson flipped in 20 points and Earl McCaster added 17 to lead coach Al Gilliam's team past the Indians and Rick Walk's 20 point leadership.

New Madrid roared to a 39-24 halftime lead in the nightcap and breezed past the host behind a balanced scoring attack that included four players in double figures.

Gene Ransburg led the Indians with 16 while Nathaniel Malone added 14. Neil beckman and Randy Williams led the Mules scoring with 14 each.

College Football Wash

NEW YORK (AP)— Hanging but it won't be in December. ut the college football wash: "I said after last year I'd

The Texas-Arkansas game in never do it again and I pleaded future years may decide the with them not to ask me," Southwest Conference title and recalls Frank Broyles of may be on national television. ... Arkansas, "But it just couldn't be avoided. However, I'll never agree to it again, although never is sometimes the wrong word to use."

Broyles has support from his friendly enemy, Darrell Royal of Texas, who'll be on the other side of the field Saturday for Shootout No. 2, a rerun of last year's 15-14 thriller won by Texas.

"I'm not gonna do it anymore either," says Royal. "For one thing, school starts earlier now and final exams are before Christmas."

While Saturday's winner goes to the Cotton Bowl, the possibility exists that the loser of the game between the nation's No. 1 and 4 teams will stay home on New Year's Day. If Louisiana State beats Mississippi Saturday night, the Tigers go to the Orange Bowl, filling the last available opening. If LSU loses, though, the Texas-Arkansas loser wins the spot.

Both coaches knew the situation when they agreed to change the game from its original date on Oct. 17.

Royal and Broyles are such bosom pals that they flew to Los Angeles together in a private plane to scout Notre Dame against Southern Cal over the weekend.

"Notre Dame didn't get one break and there were numerous big plays," explains Royal.

President Nixon won't be at the Texas-Arkansas game, like he was last year. "He told me then it was the last plaque he was ever giving, so I'd better hang onto it," said Darrell Royal.

The Army-Navy game drew its smallest crowd ever in Philadelphia—95,151—but its TV ratings in New York were third highest of the season ... topped only by the Notre Dame—USC game that followed and Notre Dame-Missouri earlier in the year. Army-Navy also beat two Monday night pro games.

Trades Top Baseball Meetings

Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California and Washington, baseball's most active wheeler-dealers since the end of the 1970 season, have set the early pace at the winter meetings, the Angels by swinging another 3-for-3 trade and the Senators with the acquisition of another controversial player.

The Angels, who had obtained slugger Tony Conigliaro from Boston in a six-player trade during the World Series, dealt for defense Monday and landed veteran outfielder Ken Berry from the Chicago White Sox in a 3for-3 swap.

Ted Williams' Senators, who have taken on Denny McLain and Curt Flood in the past two months, rescued third baseman Joe Foy from minor league exile during the draft session that kicked off the annual conclave.

Relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm, 47-year-old elder statesman of the major leagues, returned to Atlanta after a brief fling with the Chicago Cubs and Moe Drabowsky, another veteran reliever, departed the world champion Baltimore Orioles for the second time within two years in other early trade developments.

With Conigliaro and American League batting king Alex Johnson set at the corners of the California outfield, Angels' General Manager Dick Walsh went shopping for a standout middle man.

After failing to lure Paul Blair from Baltimore or Mickey Stanley from Detroit, he came up with Berry, an exceptional glove man whose .276 batting average last season was a sixyear career high.

The White Sox also sent infielder Syd O'Brien and pitcher Billy Wynne to the Angels, receiving center fielder Jay Johnstone, pitcher Tom Bradley and catcher Tom Egan in exchange.

Bradley, called up from the minors in mid-season, had a 2-5 won-lost record with the Angels. Johnstone and Egan each batted .238 for California. O'Brien had a .247 average and Wynne was 1-4 for the White Sox.

Washington picked up Foy from Tidewater of the International League for the $25,000 draft price in one of the least active selection sessions ever.

A year ago, Foy, a 27-year-old speedster, was acquired to bolster the defense of the 1969 world championship.

But Foy, who cost the Mets two promising youngsters-outfielder Amos Otis and pitcher Bob Johnson -in that trade, batted just .236, had troubles in the field and fell out of favor with Manager Gil Hodges. He rode the bench in the last two months of the season.

The Mets, who fell to a third place finish in the National League East, assigned him outright to their Tidewater farm club in October, thereby exposing him to the draft.

Only eight players were drafted by major league clubs, compared with 19 selected last December at Miami.

No Homecoming For Old Convict

POLAR BLUFF — A 70 year old former resident of the Ozark Hotel who wanted to return to a federal penitentiary "to visit my old friends" went on a letter writing spree in his bid for a homecoming.

U. S. Attorney W. Francis Murrell denied his request yesterday in refusing to charge him with a federal offense which would have resulted in a prison reunion.

Federal Bureau of Investigation officers identified the man as John Andrew Fields, 70, who had resided at the Ozark Hotel about two years and moved out on November 10.

He admitted writing letters demanding $10,000 from the Poplar Bluff Postmaster and the State Bank and Trust Company and additional letters described by authorities as "obscene" and which were addressed to Herbert Williams, proprietor of the Ozark Hotel and to a 23 year old woman who resides at the hotel.

In the letters to the Poplar Bluff postmaster and bank, the writer suggested $10,000 be dropped off in two packages — one to be left on the highway to Dexter and another on the road to Campbell.

After the letters were mailed, authorities said Fields went to Cape Girardeau and surrendered to Cape Girardeau County Sheriff Ivan McLain and reported he was wanted in Polar Bluff.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents questioned the man who said, "I want to go back to prison where all my friends are."

Authorities said the man wrote similar letters in 1950 and was sentenced to a federal prison at the time.

Investigation revealed that Fields had been in several prisons between 1921 and 1950.

Lofty Aims Lost in Maze of Oversize Cast

NEW YORK (AP) — Big John Wayne mounted an all-out attack Sunday night: 90 minutes of NBC time in a television variety special that mixed history, drama, song, dance, comedy and a hemp of preaching.

"Swing Out, Sweet Land," the vehicle for Wayne's first appearance as a TV star, had a simple, direct theme, expressed by Glen Campbell in the opening moments when he sang "This Is a Great Country," and in the final moments as the huge cast sang "God Bless America."

It was well-intentioned, hopeful and frankly patriotic. But despite the biggest turnout of stars since the last Emmy awards broadcast, it just didn't work very well.

Probably the problem was size, with too many big guest stars to be fitted into appropriate niches. There were the "Bonanza" brothers playing Peter Minuet and an Indian chief haggling over the price of Manhattan Island. There was Bob Hope, clutching a golf club and entertaining the troops at Valley Forge. There was Lorne Greene, as Washington, explaining his silver-dollar-throwing prowess to Jack Benny which led, of course, to a Benny miser joke. Dean Martin was presented slyly as the inventor of the cotton gin. Tommy Smothers was a printer's devil given a chance to read an editorial on dissent.

Rowan and Martin did one of their nonsequitur conversations as the Wright brothers. Red Skelton was a printer—without any good lines. And Lucille Ball read a prayer as the voice of the Statue of Liberty.

Johnny Cash, Leslie Uggams and Roy Clark sang. Ann-Margret danced. Dennis Weaver played Abe Lincoln's father. Bing Crosby was made up to look like Mark Twain and talked about the brotherhood of man. Wayne got into the saddle once and then roamed around a ghost town talking about the good old days. The Boston Tea Party was staged; a huge set showing the United States split in half to show the Civil War. It was all on a very large scale.

But it missed. Despite the lofty sentiment and ideals, nothing that was done touches the viewers' emotions, more is the pity.

Earlier, also on NBC, an hour was devoted to a behind-the-scenes look at the making of the hit motion picture, "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid." If one had not seen the film, it was a waste of time.

"Pets Allowed," a children's special on NBC Saturday noon was gaited to the very young viewers. It showed an assortment of domesticated animals and their owners. It was lowkey and Sid Caesar handled the commentary with broad humor.

If there was a message, it was the example of gentle handling and good care of family pets.

Santa Will Arrive Dec. 5

CHARLESTON — The big Charleston Christmas parade, featuring floats, bands and Santa Claus, will be held at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 5, according to the Chamber of Commerce retail merchants committee.

The parade, which traditionally marks the start of the Christmas shopping season in Charleston, will begin at the Main and Marshall intersection, with the participants asked to start lining up at 1:15 p.m.

Prizes will be given for the outstanding floats in the parade. First prize will be $10, second $7.50 and third $5. Any business or organization wanting to enter a float or a car in the parade may do so by notifying Miss Linda Bone at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Frank Smith Appears on TV

Cadet Frank Eugene Smith of Sikeston was among members of the Missouri Military Academy Marching Band and Fusileers drill team which will performed Nov. 29 on a nationally televised football halftime show.

The performance was seen during halftime of the St. Louis Cardinals-Philadelphia Eagles professional football game live and in color over CBS-TV The game will begin at 1 p.m.

The band and drill team recently appeared at the University of Missouri Homecoming parade in Columbia Nov. 14. Smith is a member of the band.

Masonic Grand Master Visits Dexter Lodge

DEXTER — Dexter Masonic lodge 532 was host Saturday night to William H. Chapman, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons of Missouri and also honored E. E. Estes of Dexter who was recently appointed District Deputy Grandmaster of the 50th District.

Byron W. Bowman of Dexter was also included in the Special ceremonies and received a 50 year pin during the program and dinner meeting.

Estes is the first man from the Dexter Lodge to be appointed as a Grand officer.

In addition to Bowman, the Dexter Lodge also recognized serveral other members who have 50 year pins and included Tom Ross, Clarence Powell, Dr. E. G. Bailey Sr. and George V. Sheets.

Missouri Freemasons are engaging of their Grand Lodge, a celebration that closely parallels the Sesquicentennial of Missouri as a state.

The first Mason of record to arrive in Missouri Territory was Rufus Easton, a member of a New York lodge, who became the first Postmaster of St. Louis in 1804.

The first lodge of Freemasons in Missouri was chartered by the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania at Ste. Genevieve on July 17, 1807, and on Feb. 22, 1821, three lodges in the St. Louis area met to organize a Grand Lodge of Missouri. Representatives of these three lodges, on April 23, 1821, again met to adopt a proposed constitution and elect officers to direct the new Grand Lodge.

Thomas F. Riddick, a member of the convention that formed the first constitution for Missouri and who is regarded by many as the "Father of the Missouri Public Schools," was selected as the first Grand Master or chief executive officer. He was installed, along with the other elective and appointive officers, at the first Semi-Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge on May 4, 1821.

The first annual communication of the new Grand Lodge was held on October 1-2-3-6 and concluded on Oct. 10 of 1821, just two months after President James Monroe signed the bill formally granting statehood on Aug. 10, 1821.

Dexter Lodge received its charter and became an official member of the Missouri Grand Lodge family on Oct. 13 1887.

Chapman became the 125th Grand Master of Freemasons in the state during the fraternity 149th annual communication in St. Louis, September 28-29. A native of Webster Groves, Chapman is a graduate of Iowa State College and today is one of the top insurance exeuctives in the St. Louis area. He is president of the Chapman Agncy and a member of the St. Louis Insurance Board.

Chapman notes that since the Grand Lodge was founded it has grown from a membership of around 100 to more than 110,000 in 582 lodges throughout the state. Its members have included all three Territorial Governors - Gen. James Wilkinson, Meriwether Lewis, and William Clark - and 34 of the 46 governors elected since Missouri became a state. In addition, he says, 163 of the 308 men who have served in the Congress of the United States from Missouri also have been or now are members of the fraternity.

"Naturally," Chapman adds, "every Freemason has been proud of the membership and activity in the fraternity of Former President Harry S. Truman who served as Grand Master in 1941 while in the US. Senate and was Master of the Missouri Lodge of Research, an organization for Masonic students and scholars, while President in 1950."

Men elected as delegates were Arnold Stone, James and John Pobst, Dan Wagner, Danny Dumey, Ben Marshall III, Jimmy G. Johnson, Don Schuchart, C. B. Taylor Jr., and Dempsey Gardner Jr.

Arnie Stone provided entertainment.

Free Electric Bill at Malden

MALDEN — Residents of Malden are getting an early Christmas present.

Mayor Sparrel Davis announced today that all residential electric bills payable during the month of December will be free. This does not include water and sewer charges.

The Mayor said that the decision to again issue free service billing to residential users in December was made at a meeting between a committee of the City Council and the Board of Public Works.

Due to the "cycle- billing" adopted by the Board of Public Works about one year ago, this free billing will be shown to customers on bills issued in some areas of the city on November 30 and the remaining areas on billings of Dec. 15.

Mayor Davis stated that the Council made this decision in order to express thanks to all the people for their growing use of utilities and felt that by granting the free billing during the month of December it will truly come as a Christmas gift. Free service was granted in December of last year for the first time.

Mayor Davis said that he and the City Council wish to express their thanks to the people of Malden for showing their confidence in them, the Board of Public works members, and BPW employees.

TEENAGE MOVIE AWARDS REWARDING

Again this year, Kodak splashed their winning productions on the screen at their 8th annual Teenage Movie Awards reception held at the Hotel Plaza in New York.

Any one of the thirty nationwide winners could have well been proud of the imagination and technique displayed. I only had time to talk with one, namely, Guy Brown, who won the top award of $150 plus an all-expenses-paid, six-week summer course at the University of Southern California Department of Cinema. Guy's winner was an 8 mm. color film lasting 28 minutes and entitled "Where We Seldon Wander", a live action picture recording the joy of a teenage girl who flees from the city to immerse herself in the magnificence of nature that lies beyond the dirt and grime of urban streets.

When Guy Brown, who is 18 and comes from Paramus, New Jersey, told me that he was just a small kid when he started taking an interest in cameras, I was not surprised to hear him say that he intends to make movie production his life work. His amazing ability in selecting insects, flowers, and all of the different moods and mysteries of nature made it obvious that here was one lad who has no need of pot to get a kick from the world around him, not to mention the tremendous lift that follows accomplishment. I was only sorry I didn't have a chance to meet all the other winners in this creative contest. Judging from their films, they must all be go-getters, as well as more than one-thousand others who failed to win but weren't afraid to try.

Whatever benefit Kodak receives from this sort of promotion is well deserved. I only hope other large companies will follow suit and give teenagers a similar inducement to compete in other fields.------

Small Tips at Party

No Reflection on Host

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Dr. Sawbones was a very prominent surgeon who took great pride in his social operations. Consequently, when he hosted a grand party for a large group of important physicians and surgeons at a big hotel, he became terribly upset when he later learned that they were required to shell out 15 cents to recover their hats and coats at the end of the affair. Splitting a gut, the incensed doctor sued the hotel for having humiliating him.

"When I arranged for the party," he told the judge, "it was agreed that the price included all tips. By making my guests cough up 15 cents, the hotel created the impression that I was too cheap to pick up the tip for them."

"Nonsense," responded the hotel manager. "The doctor's making a tumor out of a wart. It was a minor mistake. Nobody thinks he's a cheap skate. They all know the part cost him a bundle."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the hotel pay damages for humiliating the sensitive doctor?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that when considering that the doctor's guests were all outstanding physicians and surgeons, accustomed to dealing with patients of considerable wealth, it was too farfetched to assume that his guests would regard him any less the perfect host because of an operation involving so microscopic a sum as 15 cents.

Rotarians Told About Missouri's Sister State in Brazil

Rotarians were shown color slides of the development of Para, Brazil, a sister state of Missouri, under the Alliance for Progress Program, by Dr. Larry Sieck last night at a ladies night meeting at the Rustic Rock Inn.

Dr. Sieck is the professor in charge of the environmental and planning program at the University of Missouri at Rolla. He and his family were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lennie Whitworth.

He said that the history of Brazil, settled by the Portuguese, was different and less violent than South American countries settled by the Spanish. American capital is welcomed in Brazil, he said.

Mrs. Sieck, who came form Madras, India, as a Rotary Fellowship student, said that the women of Brazil stay at home and are not organized in clubs as are women in this country. Their masonry homes have servant quarters attached and ae separated from other homes by walls with the yards at the rear. The food is spicy.

Pat Jones announced that the Rotary Christmas party will be held at the Holiday Inn Dec. 21.

Club President Jim Green announced the publication of a brochure in behalf of the candidacy of Thatcher Scism for Rotary district governor.

Debbie Launius entertained at the piano.
